Turning from his desk work, Mr. Olsen listens with patience and understanding to a problem posed by one of his associates.

Mr. Olsen gives some of his last words of counsel to the gentlemen who have taken over his posts as Interim Association President and the President of the West Suburban League.

With Mr. Olsen presiding, another active Friday session of the Chairman and Executive Board, a planning committee he originated early in his administration at LT, gets under way.

dedication

Believing strongly in the philosophy of constantly improving education, Superintendent-Principal George S. Olsen has done an outstanding job in leading Lyons Township High School to the position of prestige it now occupies. An advocate of a sound academic curriculum integrated with a broad activities program, he has attempted to offer the best possible educational opportunities to each student.

The career which culminates in Mr. Olsen's retirement this year has seen many aspects of this school's educational system introduced including smaller classes, departmental reorganization, an improved marking system, and an extensive counseling and guidance program. A recognized leader in his field, he has served in several capacities for many noted educational associations. Mr. Olsen's positions as consultant to other school districts are proof of the high regard with which his ideas and innovations are received. Under his direction, LT has witnessed a closer relationship with parents' associations and citizens of the community, a strengthening of the faculty, and the growth of a strong and more responsible student body. As a token of LT's appreciation for those contributions which he has made since his arrival in 1942, we, the editors and staff, gratefully dedicate this 1963 Tabulae to Mr. George S. Olsen.

Enthusiasm and genuineness are evident in Mr. Olsen's handshake as he greets one of his many daily visitors.

The first president of Home-School Council and its present head give Mr. Olsen public recognition of his many noteworthy contributions.

75 years—
Three quarters of a century—
Have passed since LT began.
Here grew
Pride, respect, esteem
For the school,
For its traditions,
For its standards,
For its concern for the individual.
And here LT students
Have expressed thoughts, interests, tastes,
Bound by a common tie—this school,
A community of learning,
The embodiment of four years of unequalled enthusiasm,
Of lasting friendships
With ideas,
With people
Creating memories.

75 years

The weather was fair and warm with a threat of showers as voters turned out on April 17, 1888. There seemed to be no end in sight for the Burlington railroad strike. On special evenings at that time citizens went to the Grand Opera for entertainment. When the residents of Lyons Township voted 380 to 328 to establish their own high school, Illinois Constitution had authorized compulsory educational facilities just eighteen years before.

That summer Prof. H. W. Thurston was employed as the principal and first teacher of the school. Thirty-nine pupils attended the following fall in one room of a La Grange elementary school.

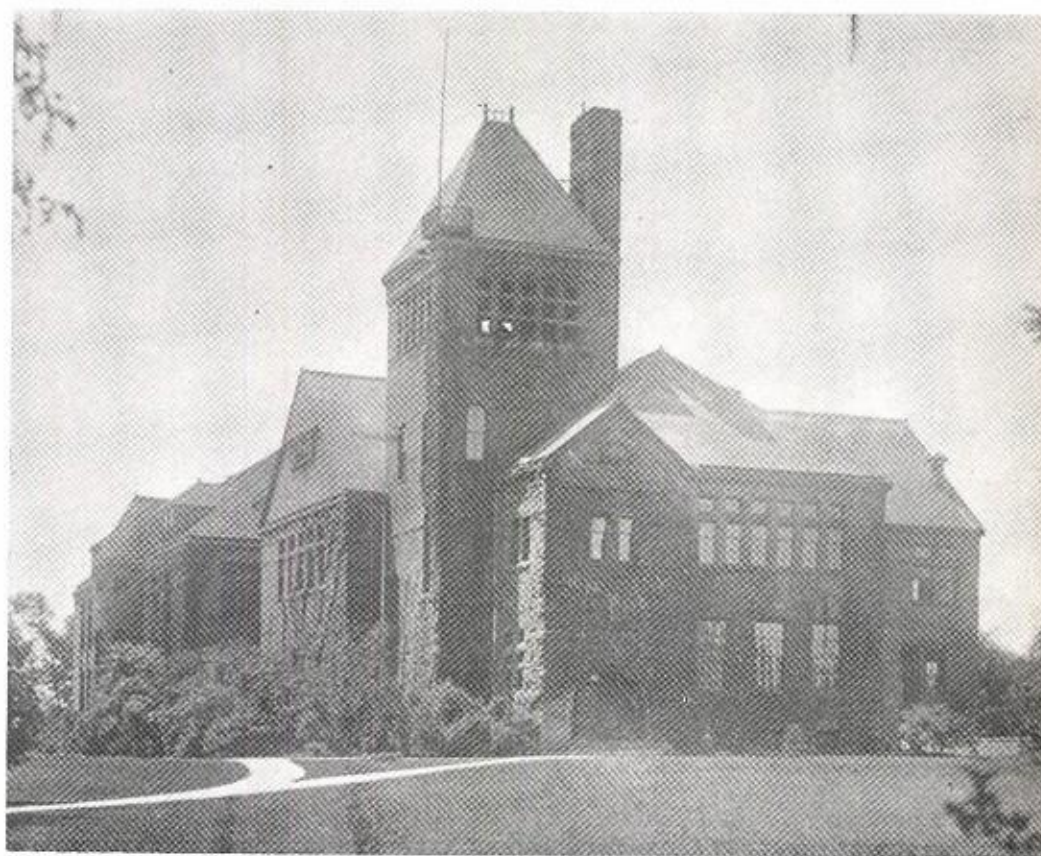

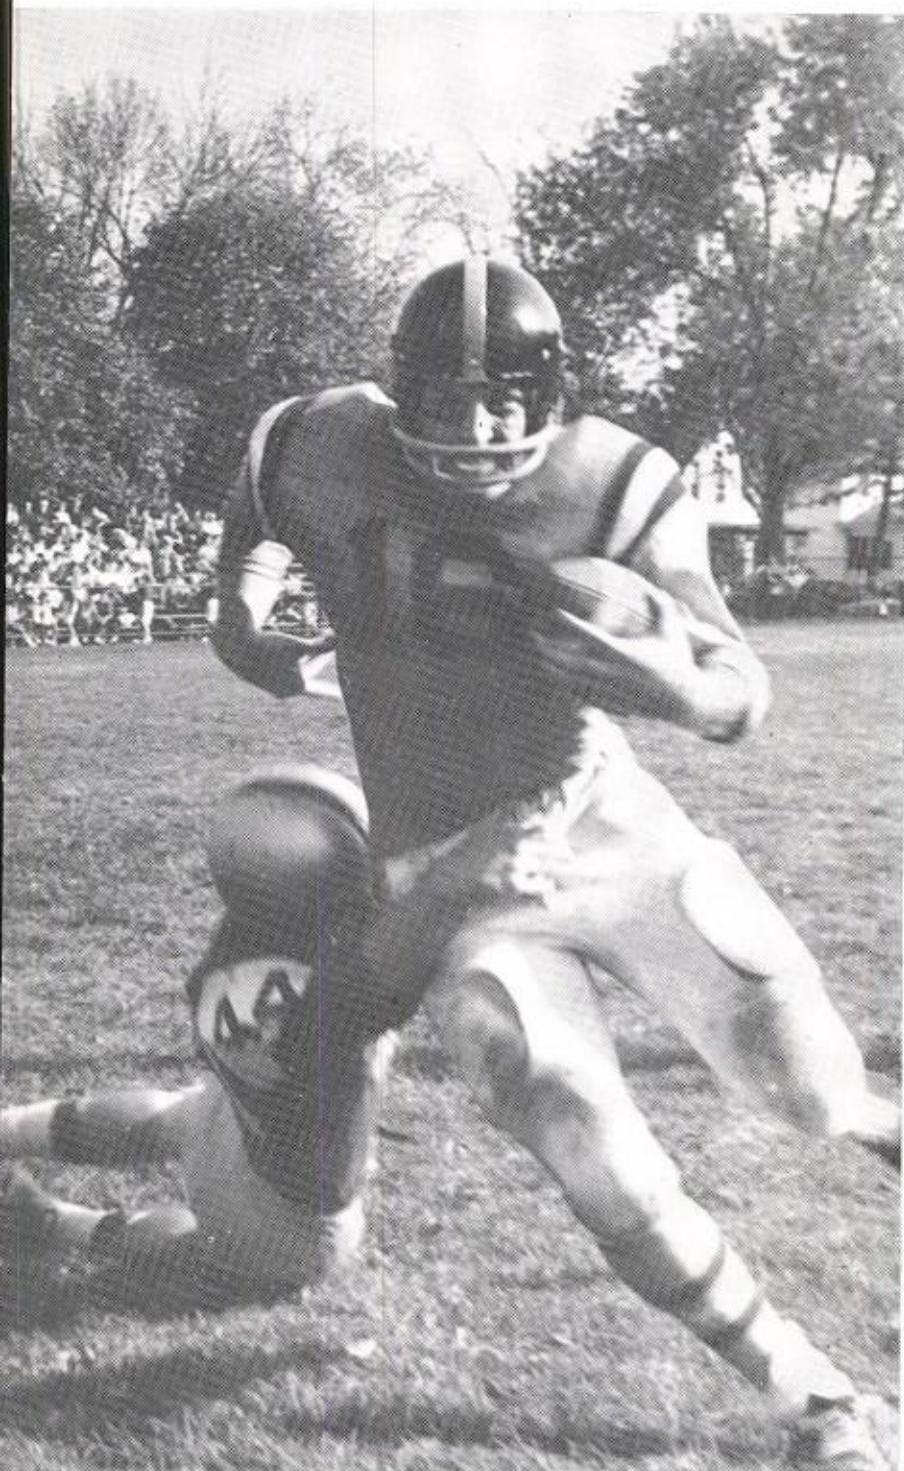

Not only has LT grown in enrollment since then, but the school has also changed in structure and size. At first LT was only a two-story brick and stone building containing an assembly room, four classrooms, a laboratory, and an office. However, crowded conditions developed as the fine reputation of LT became known and more township and tuition students enrolled. To provide students with better learning facilities, the school board had enlargements made to the original building as conditions warranted. Science labs, manual training rooms, a gymnasium, and another assembly room were important additions to LT before 1921.

High standards have always characterized scholarship at LT. The curriculum was revised in 1890 to include manual training, German, and bookkeeping. A year later physical culture was introduced. Only three years after its opening, LT was on the accredited list of high schools at Lake Forest College and the University of Michigan. Besides being accredited since 1905 by the North Central Association, LT has been named among the top 44 high schools in the country in college preparatory work.

First evidence of the stirring of athletic interest was apparent as fifty dollars was authorized to equip a room in the basement for the Boys' Athletic Association. This interest continued as Emmond Field was created in 1914 from the land bought nine years before. Other now familiar LT institutions were begun back in these early years. Cloak rooms were dispensed with in 1898 as the first lockers were installed. In 1910 two carryalls were purchased to transport students living some distance from the school. The semester plan of credits with examinations at the end of each semester was introduced in 1913. The first summer school session was held in 1916. As the international situation came home to LT, the school took its part in the First World War as $22,900 worth of Liberty Bonds were sold through a campaign in the school. Finally, in 1920, the township was separated into the districts which LT now serves.

In 1921 the school was enlarged to accommodate 1000. The north extension was begun in that year and completed in 1926. A library, cafeteria, auditorium, boys' gym, study halls, and more classrooms were among the rooms of the north addition, which helped adequately house LT students until 1947 when the south wing was built. Four years later, when athletic facilities proved inadequate, the Vaughan Building was added across the street from the main building. Finally in 1956, there were so many Lyons Township students that another campus was built about a mile from the first one. Since that year, the new South Campus has housed the freshman and sophomores while North Campus has accommodated upperclassmen. Now LT is in the process of completing still another addition, so that the facilities at North Campus will accommodate 3000 junior and senior students. Always striving to give students the best learning opportunities, LT has tried to provide the needed physical space to teach adequately the youth of the township.

Years ago as today, State and Madison, a popular before-school meeting place . . .

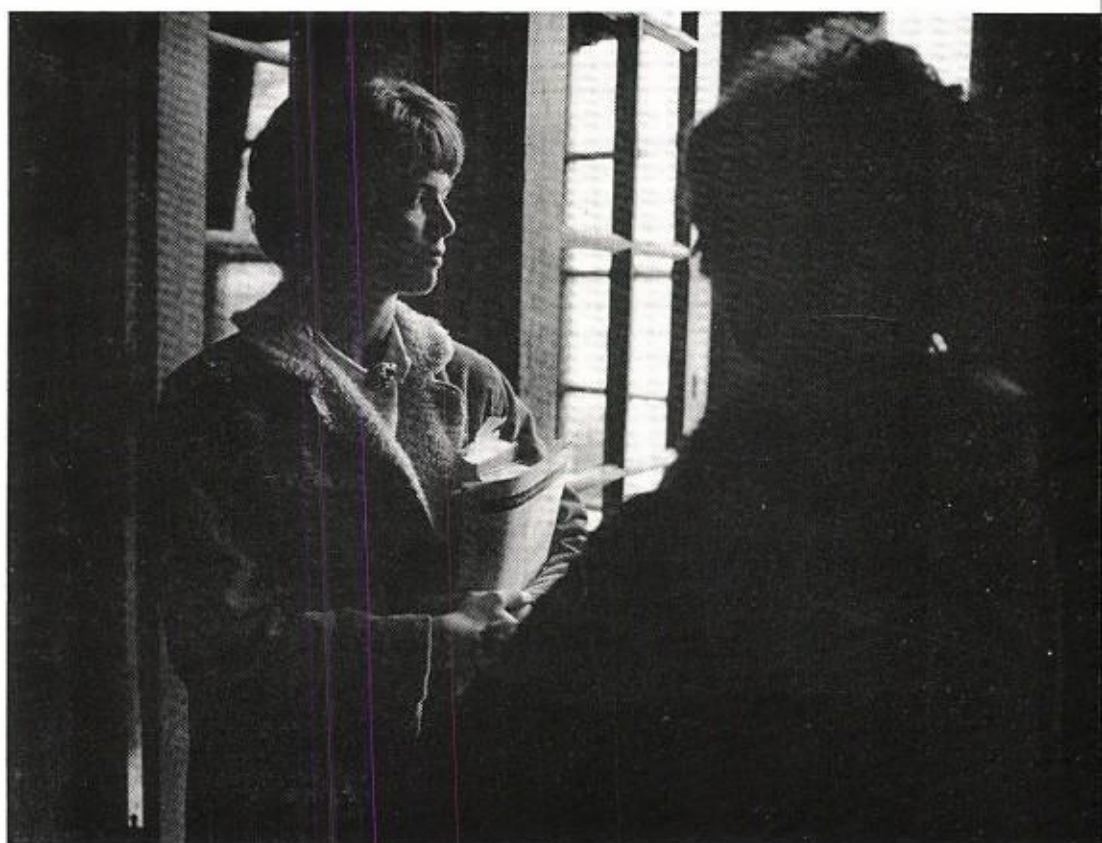

In athletics LT is particularly proud of its fine achievements. As member of the West Suburban Conference, the school has won the President's Cup, the all-sports trophy, 14 out of the last 15 years. Winning the state track title six times, the state basketball and the golf championships once, and the state cross-country title twice highlight the many outstanding athletic endeavors in the last 75 years. The interest and enthusiasm of LT's athletic minded fans dates back to the late 1800's when Marshall Field donated a 500-pound bell, which tolls after victories at Emmond Field.

Excellence in extra-curricular activities has also been an important part of LT's heritage. Outstanding debate teams have won four state championships and numerous tournament awards. In addition, school publications have had their share of state and national prominence. Both the yearbook, the "Tabulae," and the newspaper, the "Lion," have won every top national award for which a high school publication is eligible.

Today, indeed, seems remote from the days of that one room of learning three quarters of a century ago. In 1891 as a culmination to high school education, the seven members of the first graduating class assembled for graduation exercises and the reading of the class history and prophecy. This year the Class of '63 will graduate in the relatively new Vaughan Gym, while 4000 share the moment with them in the gym and hundreds of others watch on a closed circuit television screen in the auditorium. Throughout the years LT can be seen taking changes in stride and continuing to offer the sound, basic background needed by students today as well as by students in its first classes. Such is the inheritance and challenge of high standards and fine traditions given by LT to its students.

Department surveys

The Board of Education represents the citizens of the district in matters pertaining to policy and financial matters of the school. By initiating and conducting a far-sighted educational program, the board has developed an outstanding school program for the community.

Working closely with the board are Mr. Olsen, superintendent-principal, and the Chairmen-Executive Board. These people, continuing a program begun in about 1940, have invited outstanding educational leaders to survey each department of the school. This plan is only one indication of the consistent effort by the school administration to make LT the finest school possible. With the construction of the 1,435,000 dollar addition to North Campus now in its final stages, these people can be gratified by the success of the project. A tribute to the administration's judgment and leadership was the response the community consistently gave to the needs of the school.

In the serious atmosphere of the conference room, Mr. Olsen reviews one of many important issues facing the Chairman and Executive Board.

Mr. Olsen and Executive Board members review blueprints of the new addition with Mr. George Quebbemann, construction foreman for the project.

English curriculum

Realizing the importance of writing as a form of self-expression, the English Department advocates considerable practice in this skill. Each student is also able to gain understanding of his own language through the study of vocabulary and the structure of English, as well as through exposure to all major types of literature. The student acquires additional proficiency in communication through extensive speaking, reading, and listening in his three required years of English study. Because the majority of LT students go on to further formal education, the department offers several courses in college preparatory work. Students who do not go on to college may elect courses designed to round out their formal English study. Moreover, the curriculum accommodates the needs of each individual through specialized courses in journalism, drama, and speech, which students may elect during their junior and senior years.

of foreign countries

Due to the increasing awareness of maintaining good foreign relations and promoting world understanding, new stress is being placed on the mastering of foreign languages. As one result of this emphasis, the Language Department introduced new methods of teaching which included hearing-repeating techniques. Tapes, records, and the South Campus language laboratory aid the teacher in his foreign language instruction. Magazines and newspapers provided another supplementary area of learning. Besides learning a foreign tongue, the students also gained a knowledge of the culture from which the language developed.

Social Studies students acquire insight

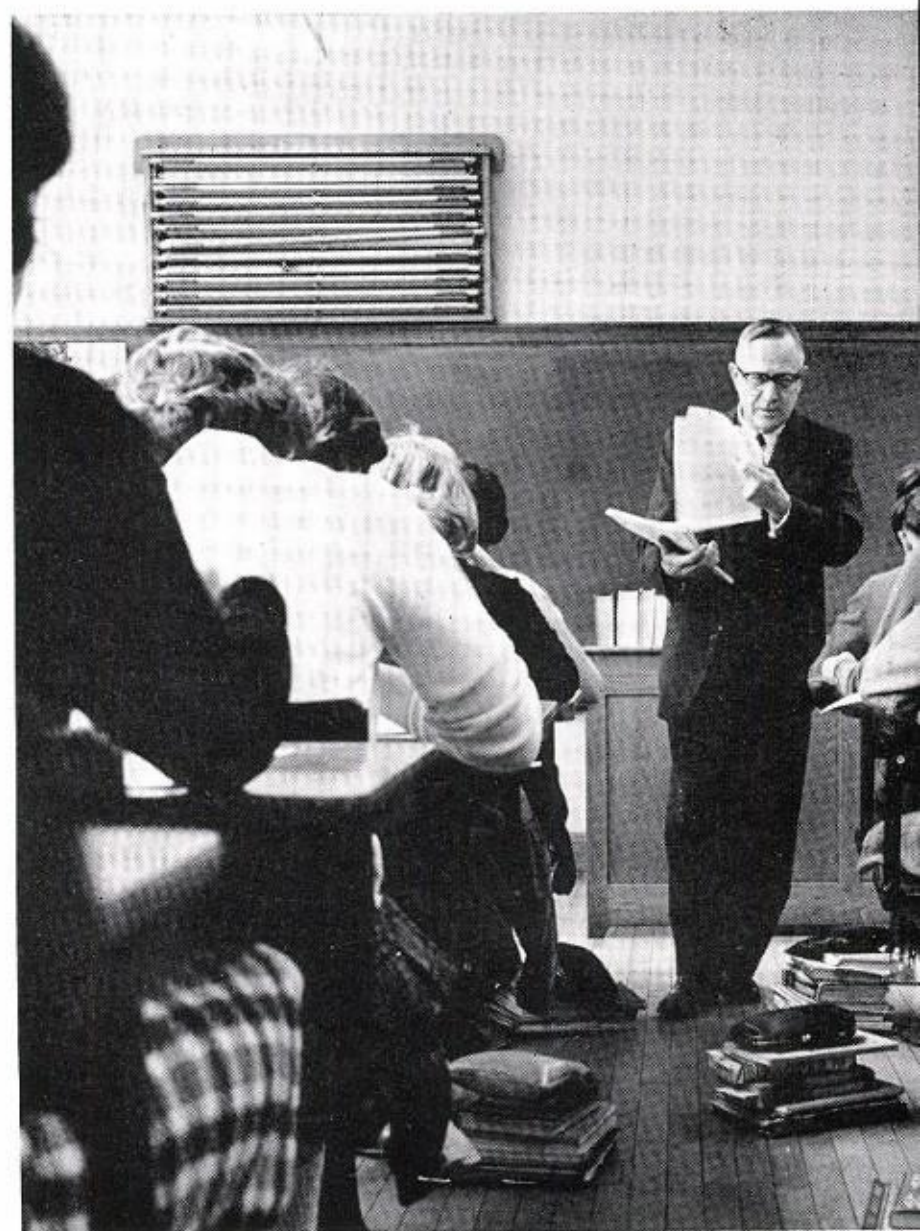

Guiding students to interpret and to think intelligently about social, economic, and political problems is a major concern of the Social Studies Department. In working toward this goal, the department initiated an extensive program which may well create many departmental changes. A reorganization of the world history courses and use of a modified form of team teaching are among possible changes. In aiming to train effective, functioning citizens, the department stresses understanding of background problems and encourages students to analyze and interpret information in formulating sound conclusions.

Math Department

In this age of rockets and space travel, mathematics is playing an increasingly important part in daily life. Believing that the individual must be able to reason out everyday problems, the Department of Mathematics has initiated approaches to teaching which attempt to help students develop this reasoning. Through its variety of course offerings, the department also helps the students progress as their needs require and their capacities warrant. By rotating instructors from one subject to another within a department, teachers keep stride with the new learning processes developed in each sub-field and gain appreciation for all phases of the sequential mathematics program. Possibly the best evidence of the success of this program is the fact that the average graduating senior has had over three years of mathematics during his four years at this high school.

Science courses:

New trends in science combine the most useful traditional methods with desirable innovations. Believing that the student should be both willing and able, the Science Department presents its courses to help each student understand his environment in today's highly scientific world. Adoption of the National Science Foundation courses has made an impact on scientific study not only in LT's science study area but also all over the nation. Emphasis upon reasoning, application of principles in the laboratory, increased independent study, and de-emphasis of memorization aspects are features of this program. Affording the opportunity to choose from a variety of subject areas in the field of science while providing impetus for some young science enthusiasts to enter the professional areas of science study, the department hopes to encourage students to appreciate many of the subtler aspects of the world around them.

fine arts students

Developing methods to allow the student some degree of freedom in handling basic tools and machinery well is a major objective of the Industrial Arts Department. The student is encouraged to move in the direction of original project work, providing evidence of initiative and imagination. By combining self-expression with investigation, the student employs the machines to experiment beyond the limits of an assignment and to provide some basis for eventual occupations and hobbies.

Aiming to enrich the artistic experiences of the student, the Art Department seeks to develop an individual's interests, judgement, and abilities. In order to improve and stimulate creative expression in the student, the department offers each person a variety of subject matter and media with which he may work freely. Therefore, each student has the opportunity to experiment with new concepts and to gain gratification from his work.

Departments aid

Encouraged by the success of the personal typing course, taken by almost half of the students enrolled in summer school, the Business Department added two new courses this year. These additional subjects, Introduction to Business and Notehand, gave students opportunities to explore the field of business and to learn some basic skills which will be useful even if they don't enter the business world. With improved classroom facilities the department was able to continue to offer courses which meet the needs of both college-bound and career-minded students.

Dedicated to the enrichment of family life, the Home Economics Department also provided its students with training for the future. As a result of a gradual departmental reversal, the scientific principles of home economics now augment the practical skills of homemaking. With courses offered on a semester basis, more students are provided with the opportunity to elect subjects in this practical arts area.

In addition to teaching fundamentals and elementary theory to beginners, the Music Department also endeavors to develop in its students a more thorough music appreciation and cultural interest. Stressing individual improvement as well as group performance, students learn self-expression and stage-bearing. A variety of courses are offered to accommodate the beginning instrumentalist and vocalist as well as the advanced musician. Also such courses as music exploration, music appreciation, and harmony give each student a chance to increase his enjoyment and listening ability. The Christmas and spring festivals and the operetta provided singers and musicians with an opportunity to perform for the public.

Co-operation, sportsmanship develop physical,

The development of understanding, habits, and attitudes necessary to maintain physical and mental effectiveness is the goal of the Physical Education Department. The boys' class program provides warm-up drills and seasonal sports supplemented by intramural and interscholastic sports. These activities develop physical well-being as well as social and mental maturity by providing opportunities for co-operation and good sportsmanship. Girls are trained in good body mechanics through a variety of team and individual sports, rhythms, and gymnastics. Providing for girls who show ability and interest, a leadership program is carried out for the sophomore, junior, and senior years with emphasis on leading and officiating techniques.

Thoughtful, useful, satisfying –
Created to meet the needs of each student – Organizations provide outlets
For action, creation, guidance, performance.

Formed in 1903,
Philosophical Club was first,
Initiating a trend:
Mandolin, Shakespeare, Bird and Flower,
Mathematics, Russian, and Forum clubs –
Many-faceted, usually stimulating,
Sometimes disillusioning, ever-challenging –
Each playing an integral part
In school, in student life.
Through booms, depressions, and wars,
Interest flourished.

Here are our organizations
With their many and varied backgrounds,
Allowing LT to function
In the after-school time of the individual.

Student Government

The essence of this year's Student Association can be found in the words participation, action, and improvement. The role of the individual in student government was stressed, and an effort was made to get as many students as possible to participate in the work. Led by President Jim Foster, the Student Council completed a broad scope of activities. Among these were four dances, Homecoming, publication of the "Gold and Blue Guide," a vocal concert, the foreign student program, guidance discussions, and pep assemblies. North and South Campus Representative Assemblies achieved greater unification through several combined meetings where members concentrated on the development of new ideas and the improvement of old ones. Through their participation in assembly projects, members were able to provide leadership while gaining valuable experience.

Addressing the members of the Executive Board, Student Council president, Jim Foster, reports on the possibilities of getting big-name performers for the jazz concert.

Foreign students' gifts to LT: understanding,

Her fellow students are captivated by Pam's friendly smile and by her interesting comments concerning her home, Malaya, during one of the foreign student discussions.

As Pamela Sodhy stepped off the plane at O'Hare Field, she was greeted by her American Family, the Roses, and a crowd of LT students. Pam, who is half Chinese and half Indian, and is LT's first leave in foreign student from Asia comes from Kuala Lumpur, Malaya. Her friendly smile and interest in LT soon won her many friends during her year here before returning to Malaya's Victorian Institute where she will be in the sixth form. In addition to her participation in many school organizations as an honorary member, Pam also found time to discuss her life in her own country and her reactions to America at many informal, after-school, "Pam and Elsa" meetings. Through these meetings, LT students gained a first-hand view of her important and expanding section of the world. We are sure that every LT student wishes Pam the best of luck in her future studies and career.

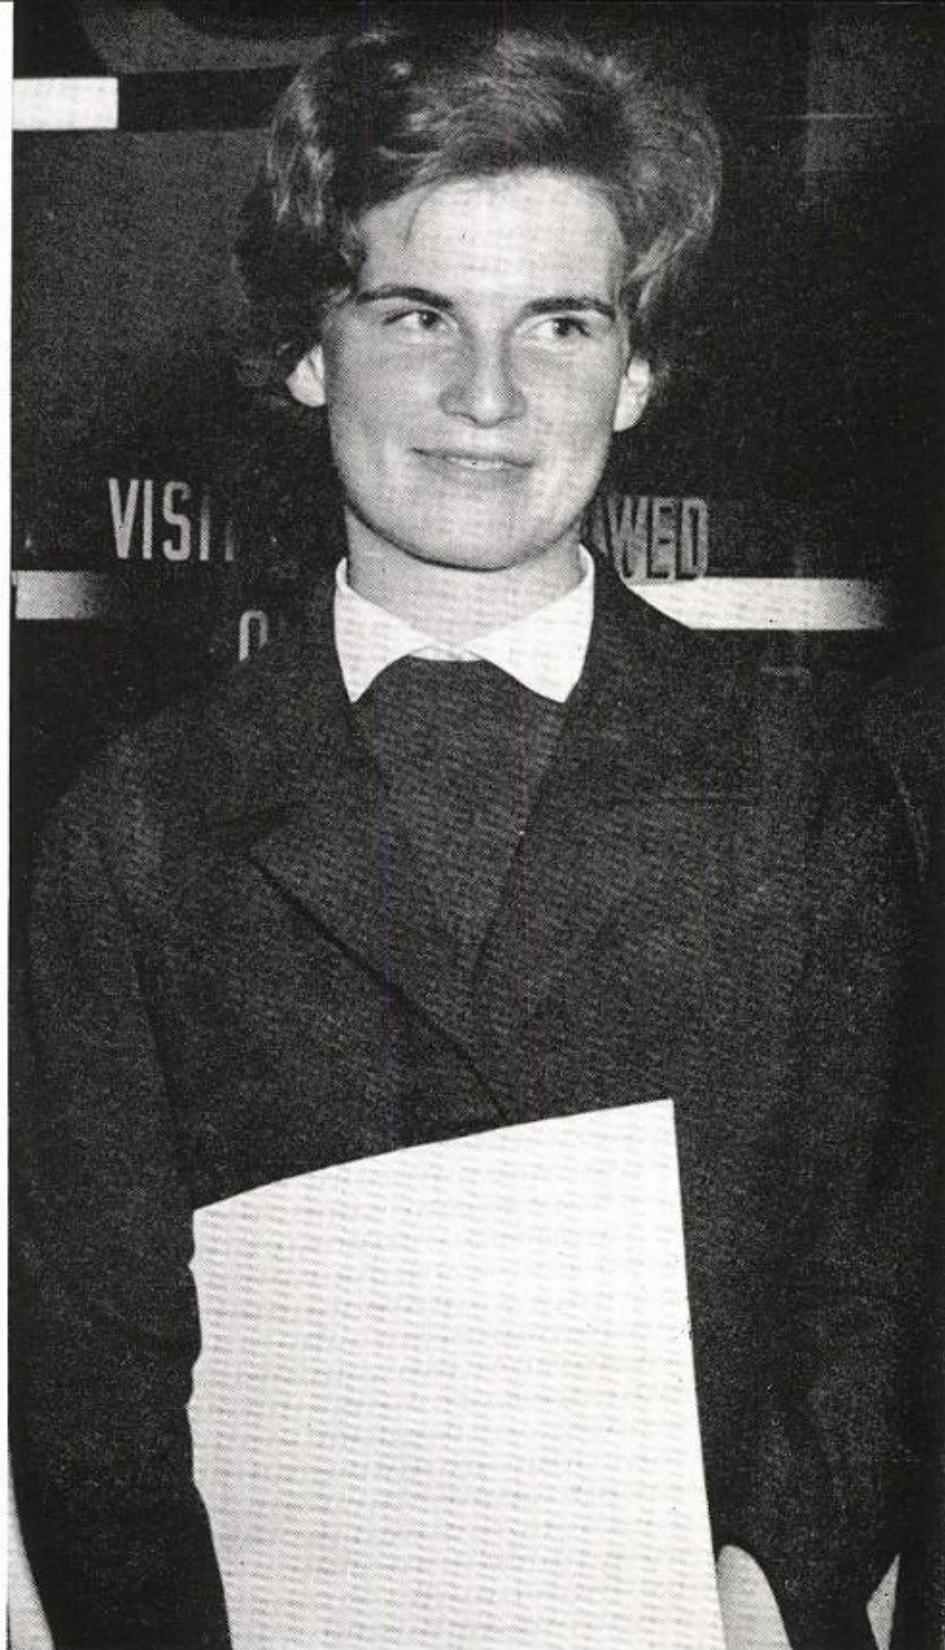

Decorating Easter eggs for the first time, Pam learns more about the festive aspects of the holiday from her American family, the Roses.

friendship, culture

This year, LT received as one of its two foreign students Elsa Mayerhofer from Austria. American ways soon became an integral part of Elsa's life after she became an honorary member of GAA, Student Council, Senior Class Board, and Girls' Club Board. Elsa made many friends at LT, not only through her activities, but also through her glowing personality. She always showed warmth and kindness to everyone. After returning to Austria, Elsa plans to attend the University of Vienna to go into pharmaceutical work. We all enjoyed Elsa's company, and we hope that this past year will be one that she'll never forget.

As Corral Show opening night draws near, Pam and Elsa, with their American sisters Barb and Cappy, rehearse their octopus number.

After arriving in Chicago by bus, Elsa smiles appreciatively at the group of LT students who have come to welcome her.

In a quick, pre-dinner workout, Elsa and members of her American family, the Paynes, make use of their flood-lighted backyard basketball court.

Phyl Reames and Jan Olson go through a necessary process in preparation of the yearbook: placing all material for each page in its separate envelope, prior to sending them to the printer.

Layouts, deadlines

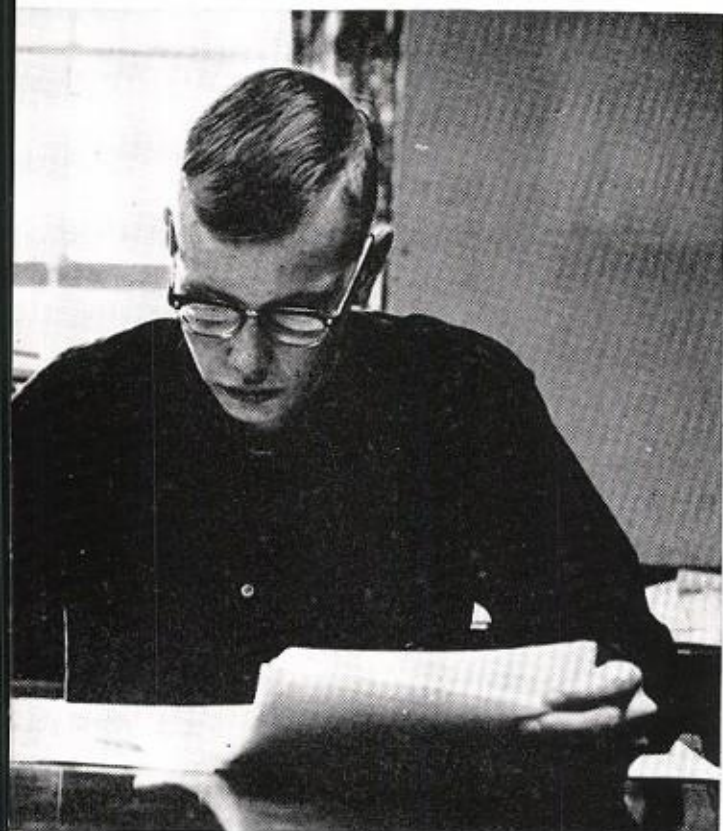

The proof sheets for the underclass section are back, and copy staff members Sue Saso and Mark Oiseth begin the detailed job of checking for errors.

Having moved from the old "Tab" room into a comfortable upper nook of the building, the 1962-63 Tabulae staff began work in new surroundings. After several orientation meetings under the direction of editors Judy Reiff, Bette Rohse, Jane Sego, JoAnne Smutny, Sue Singley, Rossann Baker, Jeff Carr, and sponsor, Mr. Bull, the twenty-two staff members began writing and typing copy, working on layouts, scheduling class and club pictures, and writing captions for innumerable photos. Also, the staff was divided into separate committees such as copy rewrite, underclass pictures, senior pictures, senior write-ups, and index.

Besides the main business of putting out a yearbook, staff members enjoyed parties and picnics during the year. Also, attendance at several conventions relating to yearbook journalism helped the members to achieve their end result: the 1963 Tabulae.

Copy, art, and photography editors pool their efforts at the center table as a division page effect begins to take shape.

Publication of the Lion, the school newspaper under the sponsorship of Miss Keefe, gave more than 100 students practical journalism experience through long hours of hard work. Surmounting numerous obstacles, such as mislaid copy and picture difficulties, the competent staff again produced a prize-winning paper. Among the awards earned were the Chicago-sponsored Brotherhood Award and an All-American rating from Quill and Scroll. Seven staff members were honored by invitations to speak at the NSPA Conference.

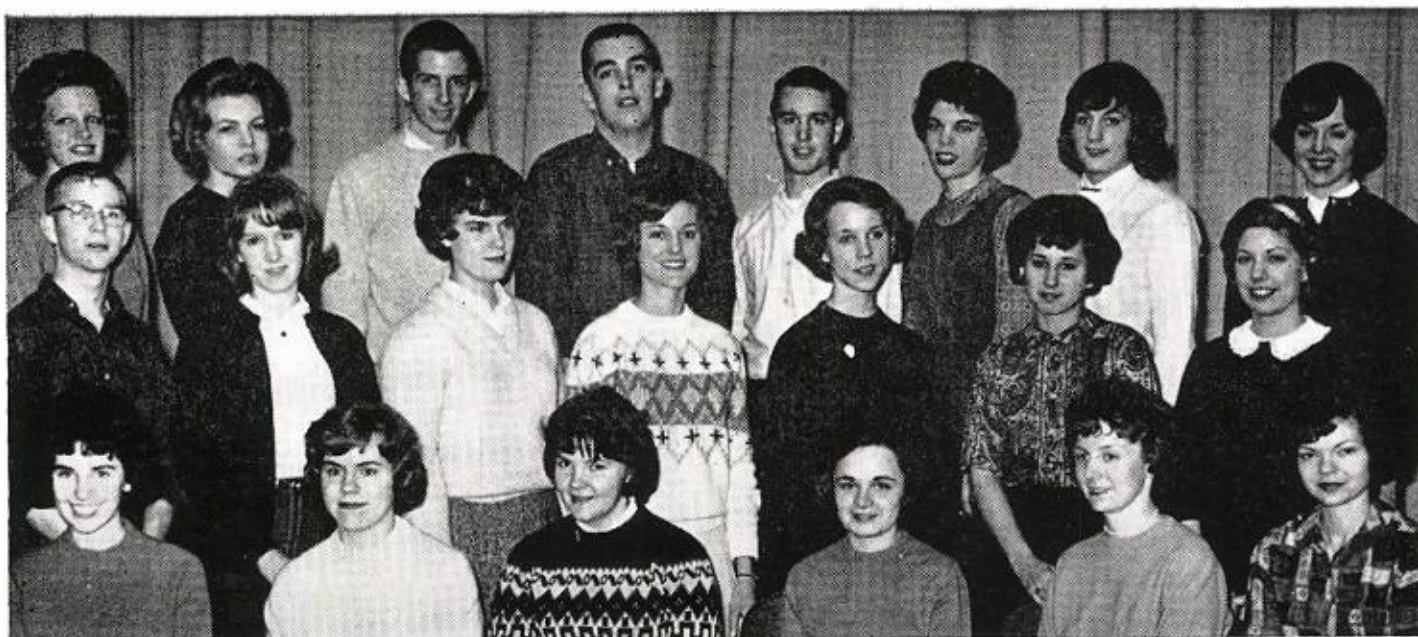

Working in conjunction with the "Lion," Press Bureau informed local papers of high school activities by submitting more than 1400 articles. In the spring the two staffs journeyed to the Cinema Theater to see "David and Lisa," which provided an enjoyable break from their usual routine.

4:00 P.M. on Thursday, the last school day before spring vacation, and the remnants of the Lion Staff rush to meet another deadline.

Journalists, debaters, creative writers enjoy,

Functioning in its fifteenth year at LT, Quill and Scroll is an honorary society composed of outstanding high school journalism students throughout the world. Members of LT's chapter of this international organization, were chosen in December from the "Lion" and "Tabulae" staffs by sponsors Miss Keefe and Mr. Bull. Taking part in an impressive candlelight initiating ceremony, they received certificates and pins to verify their society membership. Judy Adams and Dianne Huebner had the honor of representing LT by taking part in the initiation services at the National Conference of the Scholastic Press Association.

To encourage creative writing and to provide an opportunity for written expression was the purpose of Writers' Club. Members spent time criticizing and evaluating each other's efforts, enjoying potlucks and hearing speakers. The sponsors, Mr. Rausch and Miss Jordan, encouraged individuals to submit entries in various contests, while the president, Sue Spleet, tried to increase interest and participation by more extensive publicity. The major project of the club was the publication of "Pen 'n' Inklings," a literary magazine containing the best LT student prose and poetry of the year.

Before listening to a practice debate, debaters receive information which will aid them in presenting their own cases.

Hard work during the summer and throughout the year in accumulating information and knowledge in all facets of foreign trade paid off for LT's Debate teams. Supervised by Mr. Rehn, Mr. Runyan, Miss Thurnau and Mrs. Rimby, the debaters gained much valuable experience in discussing the controversial statement: "Resolved: that the U. S. should promote a common market for the Western Hemisphere." Beginning the year with the LT Invitational Tournament in which fifty different schools participated, and many practice debates, they prepared for the series of thirty Metropolitan Debate Union tournaments. Highlighting the season were appearances on the WBBM-TV debate series, sectional tournament in March, and participation in the Augustana Invitational Debate Tournament, popularly considered by debaters to be the "Rosebowl of Debate."

To add enjoyment to their study of a foreign culture, the members of Spanish Club, sponsored by Mrs. Walker and Miss Carnal, began the year's activities with the installation of officers, followed by songs and refreshments. Singing carols and breaking pinatas at the Christmas Pinata Party and hearing guest speakers at other meetings were among the features of the first semester's activities. Jane Novotny, president of Circulo Espanol, and the other officers planned a Pan American Day program, which featured a speaker from Latin America. The annual chili supper concluded the organization's social and cultural activities.

German movies and a traditional dinner were among the highlights of this year's German Club activities. Sponsors Miss Meyer, Miss Rathert, and Mr. Hoch were successful in their efforts to make the study of German more entertaining as was demonstrated by the members' enthusiastic participation on the Homecoming float, "The Lore-Lion," and on the Club Carnival booth. North Campus president, Dick Landis, and South Campus president, Jack Tietz, sparked an enjoyable and successful year for the members.

In acquainting second and third-year French students with France, its people, culture, and customs, French Club inspired further interest in France and its language. Sponsored by Miss Lutz and Miss Ford, the group won second place in the blue division with their Homecoming float, "Let's Trump 'Em." Members met several times to hear and take part in the programs planned by the sponsors and president Nancy Hughes. Among the programs scheduled were the annual Christmas party, a presentation of a feature-length film, "L'Ecole Buissonniere," and a dinner party which concluded the year's activities.

Journeys to Orchestra Hall in December to see films depicting life in Yugoslavia and to the Studebaker Theater to see Stavia Dancers and Singers were only two of the varied activities of Russian Club. Open to any student interested in Russia or its language, the club held monthly meetings in which activities ranged from singing Russian songs under the direction of their sponsor, Mr. Petronaitis and student teacher, Miss Applequist, to discussions on Russian literature.

Freshman "slaves" catered to the whims of sophomore toga-wearers at an authentic Roman banquet held in the spring by Latin II Club. Sponsor Mr. Hammerlund supervised the club's activities, which were directed towards increasing interest in Latin among South Campus students. Regular activities, directed by President Bill Hamilton, included a Homecoming float and a booth at Club Carnival. The main attraction of the three annual get-togethers was the festive Christmas party with entertainment and refreshments for all members.

In meetings once or twice a month, the members of Vergil Club, under the sponsorship of Miss Birney, increased their knowledge of the ancient Romans. Vergil Club sought to provide greater interest in Latin while striving to increase knowledge of the language through social activities and entertainment. Under the leadership of co-consuls Sharon Sass and Barb Lutz, a program for the year was set up. Activities included their own Roman banquet, a Saturnalia Christmas party, a fudge-selling Club Carnival booth, and a picnic.

students delve into intricacies of dramatics

Members of Dramatics Club are not always playing a part, but they do enjoy all phases of theater work. Regular activities, under the direction of President Rossann Baker and sponsor Miss Herdon, included the construction of the Homecoming float "Give 'Em a Royal Flush," and participation in school plays. Members also enjoyed putting on one act play demonstrations, listening to speakers, and giving play cuttings. Skits, carols, and a play by South Campus members were the highlights of the annual Christmas potluck on the auditorium stage. Thirty-five members also attended the Fifth Annual High School Drama Institute at the University of Wisconsin, where Richard Sheridan's play "The Rivals," was presented. Other special events were Chicago productions, a make-up demonstration, and a presentation of the "Bald Soprano" as readers' theater.

Selected upperclass students showing profound interest and ability in dramatics and stagecraft form the National Thespian Society, the honorary dramatics organization. New members were chosen by past members in the fall and spring according to a system of points based on participation in school productions. Although the club was not very active, two initiation dinners were held in honor of the new members. The club was also represented at the state convention where members of the society presented Eugene Ionesco's "The Bald Soprano."

Drama Club members rehearse before their trial performance of Ionesco's "The Bald Soprano," later performed at the state Thespian convention.

"Schussboomer", "christi", and "Wedlen" are words often heard in discussions at Ski Club. The main purpose of this club is to provide an opportunity for skiing enthusiasts to get together. Regular activities, such as a ski fashion show and films on skiing in other countries and on new techniques, were conducted with the help of sponsor Mr. Puckett. Club members also enjoyed ski trips to Wilmet Ski Hills and the Four Lakes ski area.

High standards of sportsmanship and school spirit were fostered this year by the South Campus Pep Club. Open to all interested freshmen and sophomores, the club held monthly meetings under the direction of President Betsey Burditt and sponsor Mrs. Pitcher. Participation in the club's activities by selling school spirit buttons, helping Student Council with pep assemblies, and making posters for display at South Campus increased member's enthusiasm and school spirit.

Pep Club officers and their sponsor, Mrs. Pitcher, happily inspect the newly-arrived shipment of buttons which they hope will boost school spirit and the club's treasury.

To increase appreciation of music for all its members was the main goal of Mu Tau. Sponsors Mr. Lawler and Mr. Miller at North Campus and Mrs. Marderosian at South Campus aided presidents Karen Hicks and Diane Holman in planning many enjoyable meetings. A guest pianist was featured at one program while talks and participation in musical presentations were included in others. Serving at the annual Pops Concert, selling corsages at Christmas, and performing for the Sigma Alpha Iota Music Society highlighted the club's activities. Throughout the year Mu Tau sponsored programs which gave members adequate opportunity to evaluate and appreciate many forms of expression.

Speakers aid future nurses, future teachers

A career in nursing or in related medical fields is anticipated by each member of Future Nurses of America. Presidents Tanya Hills and Lynn Schmidt worked with sponsors Mrs. Norbut, Mrs. Sheiler, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Wells to plan the monthly meetings and the special events. Their members were exposed to the various aspects of nursing through speakers, movies, and discussions. By visiting schools and hearing their representatives, the girls explored their choices of medical institutes. Special events, such as a Christmas party at a local restaurant and a spring picnic, added flavor to the club's year. Selling confetti at Homecoming raised money for the Milared Fetzner Scholarship Fund, which awards a scholarship to one LT girl each year to help her through a medical education.

in exploring aspects of vocational fields

Exploring the field of education, members of Future Teachers of America were guided by sponsors Miss Corley, Mrs. LaVigne, and Miss Smithson. In order that they might gain a better understanding of the various aspects of a teaching career, members saw movies and heard speakers, including teachers of the handicapped, at their monthly meetings. President Barb Parker, assisted by the other officers, planned a Christmas party and encouraged members to attend a workshop at Lincolnway High School. In the spring the group honored the seniors and installed new officers at a dinner. Teaching one of their regular classes for a period during Teaching Career Month gave the group practical experience for their future vocation.

Common enjoyment of science, bridge, models

To enjoy and to develop an interest and ability in model railroading was the primary objective of the Model Railroad Club. Sponsored by Mr. Hursh, this year's club planned and built a model railroad, which was owned and operated by the club and set up in the South Campus basement. Making field trips, discussing home layouts, listening to members' lectures, and working on the club pike were among the activities that the LTHO engaged in. To further their technical knowledge, the organization also visited Electro-Motive and attended a noted model train layout at Salt Creek.

South Campus students prowling the halls after school this past year may have heard phrases resembling bids emanating from crowded classrooms. This should have been no surprise, for Bridge Club began its first season of activities this year. Sponsored by Mr. Norbert Blei, the enthusiastic members participated in free play and challenges as well as a three-month tournament. In addition to the excitement of play, the members found the club's activities profitable as they developed new bridge skills and improved their games in competition with other students.

draws students into interest-oriented groups

Members of Bi-Phy-Chem, aided by sponsors Mrs. Wenner and Mr. Arthur Hanson, and led by Jim Watson, North Campus president, and Ed Theole, South Campus president, had a busy year studying and discussing many fields of scientific interest and importance. Every person had to lead a discussion in his particular field of interest before he became a voting member. These discussions, which were about such widely varying topics as biology, meteorology, mathematics, and physics helped fulfill the purpose of the club: to stimulate interest and discussion of science within the LT student body.

Because of the awareness of its members that trees are being cut down extravagantly, that game is diminishing, and that streams are being polluted, Conservation Club, directed by Mr. Love and Mr. Klevinger, studied problems such as these. Concern over the fate of the Indiana dunes inspired the members to write letters to President Kennedy. One of their several guest speakers, Dr. Fisher of the Lincoln Park Zoo, talked on conservation of wild animals and on working with animals in a zoo. Besides their conservation-minded activities, the members also built their first Homecoming float and sold corsages at the football game to promote school spirit.

The second year of Archaeology Club found the members busy organizing the school artifact display, which included ancient stonework, arrowheads, and pottery. At bi-weekly meetings the members explored the science concerned with the reconstruction of pre-history through studying remains left by man. Sponsor Mr. Poryon and President Warren DeBoer also planned a spring field trip and a survey trip to Aztalan State Park where members viewed reconstructed stockades and temples and domed mounds.

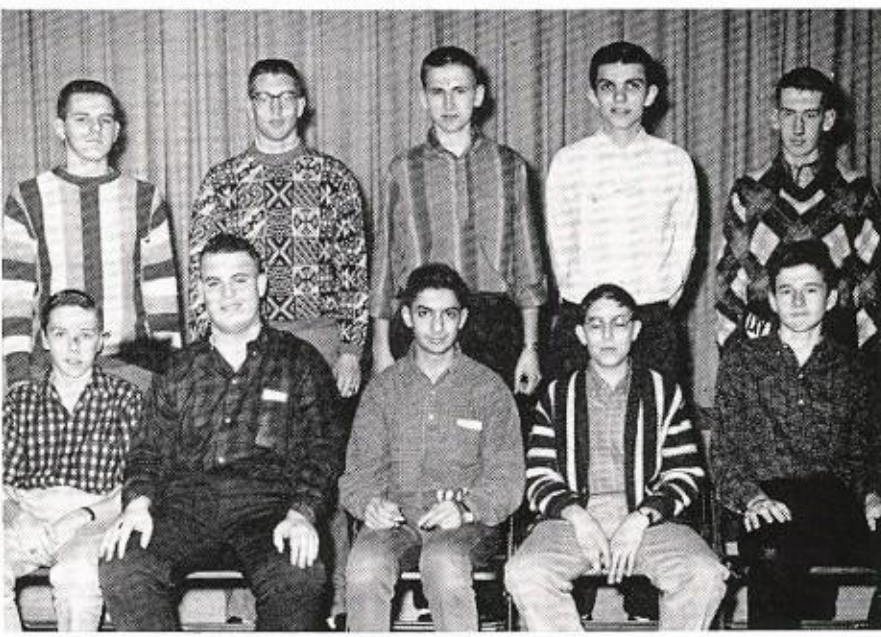

To further interest in amateur radio broadcasting was the main goal of Radio Club. Meetings were devoted mainly to transmitting over the school station W9MTJ and to studying radio code, theory, and general broadcasting techniques. Led by President Jim Patterson and sponsor Mr. Warning, members toured WTMQ, a local station, and also visited a power distributing station. To climax the year's activities, the ham radio enthusiasts practiced broadcasting under simulated emergency conditions.

Talks by local professional photographers, Roger Wyckoff and Miles Snyder, were just two of the features of Camera Club this year. In keeping with the club's intention to popularize photography at LT, Presidents Tom Willard and Spencer Young, aided by sponsors Mr. Brehm, planned other interesting programs, including movies on photography and a series of lectures on the use of technical equipment. As a climax to the year's activities, South Campus members held their annual photo contest, which was once again successful.

Checkmate was the goal of the thirty-five Chess Club members at their Friday meetings. President Stephen Doty and sponsor Mr. Marks helped the members to improve their games and to become skillful at the intricate techniques required for a winning approach. Numerous practice games and a tournament among LT students helped the chess players prepare for a tournament with players from R-B. Although members also participated in the Club Carnival, the main purpose of the club was to teach its members both the fundamentals and the finer points of playing chess.

Auctions at each meeting were one of the favorite activities for the members of Stamp and Coin Club. Under the sponsorship of Mr. J. Davis, the members helped one another in the pursuit of their hobbies. The trading session at each meeting provided a chance for the exchange of valuable stamps and coins. Another facet of the club's activities was buying stamps from the Philatelic Agency in Washington, D. C. and selling them to the students at face value. Through these and similar functions, Stamp and Coin Club furthered greatly the interest and collections of LT's philatelists and numismatists.

Bowling, Rifle Club members aim for spares,

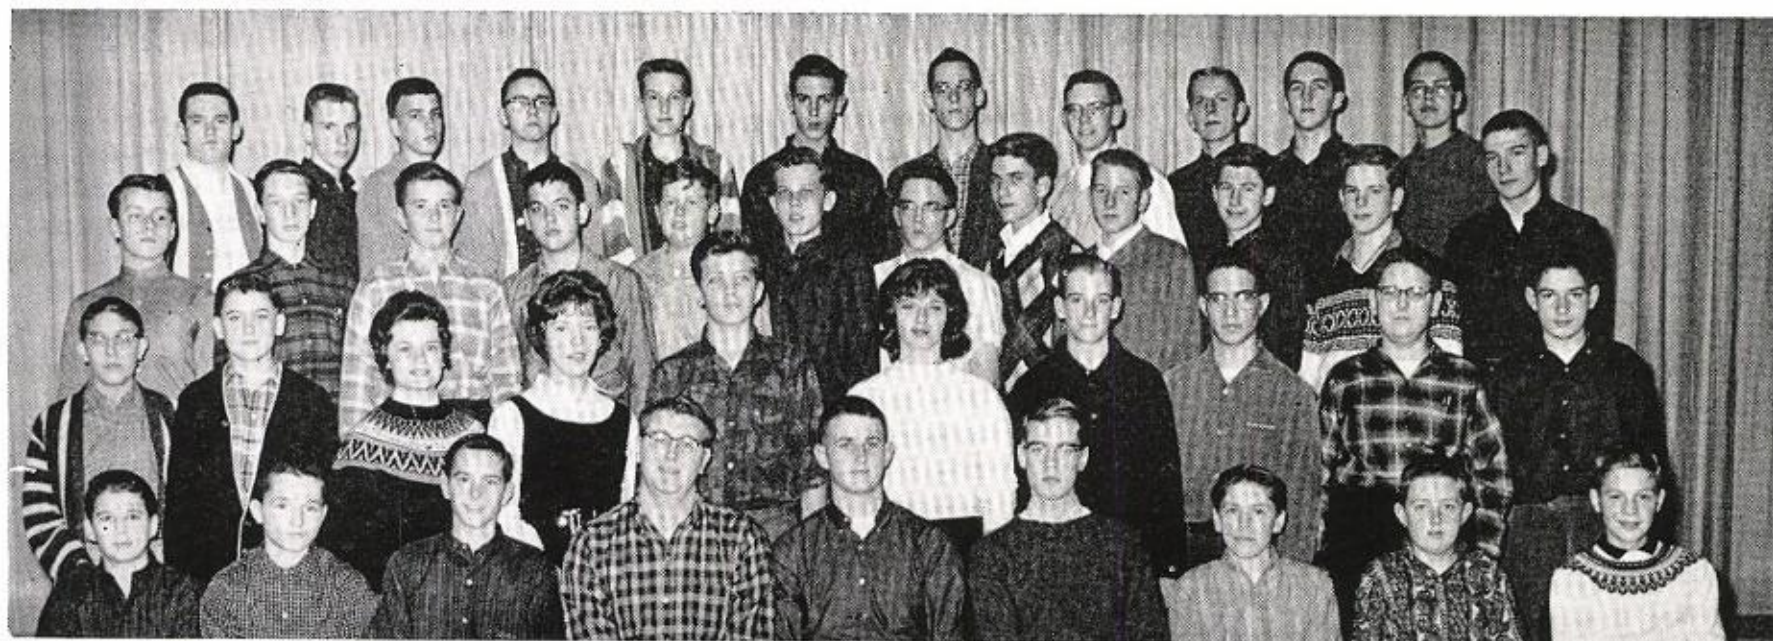

Enjoyment and competition were the by-words of the North Campus Bowling Club when it met every Tuesday at LaGrange Lanes. Secretaries Ed Jankowski and Tim Egnot kept records for the twelve-team league, which was sponsored by Mr. Gooch. One highlight of the year was the Thanksgiving "Turkey Roll," in which the member bowling the most pins over average received a free turkey. Other features were a spring party with prizes and refreshments and interscholastic bowling tournaments, which included a much coveted victory over Hinsdale.

The sixty members of the South Campus Bowling Club converged on the lanes every Monday for competition in their own twelve-team league. The league's sponsors, Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Hammar, and its secretary, Chuck Markley, kept the organization rivalry-spiced, despite the fact that the club did not have the great percentage of experienced bowlers as its North Campus counterpart.

strikes, bull's-eyes in frequent competition

To educate its members in the safe use of fire-arms, Rifle Club met in the South Campus range four times each week for valuable practice in riflery. In keeping with this purpose, the club, under the di-rection of President Fred Aldrich, enacted a new rule that required all new members to pass a writ-ten exam on gun safety before being allowed to shoot. Shooting in four competitive matches and a "turkey" shoot as well as trying for National Rifle Association awards highlighted the year's activities.

Planning, preparing for future life, careers,

Among the many events sponsored by the North Campus Home Economics Club this year were knitting and bowmaking demonstrations and a fashion show. Spreading their activities outside of the school, club members made Easter baskets for the children at the Cook County Hospital. Led by Sue Singley and sponsored by Miss Davis, this club sought to interest its members in all aspects of homemaking. The South Campus group, which was directed by Miss Pontikas and led by Nancy Harrigan, scheduled a style show, a mother-daughter tea, and a hair-styling program. The two clubs combined their efforts to win an honorable mention with their Homecoming float, "We'll Shuffle R-B's Deck and Win In Diamonds," and to complete the year with a spring field trip to Chicago.

club members hear speakers, work on projects

Members of Forum started the year on a high note as they invited Mr. Boris Davydov, a representative of the Russian consulate to speak. This meeting, which caused a flurry of controversy throughout the Chicago area, was representative of the club's aim to promote interest and understanding of world affairs, within the LT student body. President Helen Fairbank, aided and supervised by sponsors Mr. Wood and Mr. T. Davis, made arrangements for additional programs, including talks by an FBI agent, a representative of the Peace Corps, and Mr. C. Virgil Martin, who was formerly in charge of the Cook County Welfare Department.

Under the guidance of their sponsors Mr. Eckerle, Mr. Latimer, and Miss Ripley, the members of Business Club prepared themselves to enter the business world through experiences not offered in class. Speakers came from businesses in the area and kept the members informed about the latest trends in the profession. Their two projects for the year included a Homecoming float, which won an honorable mention, and a booth at Club Carnival. The year was highlighted by the annual business conference. Ten girls were chosen from the club to attend this affair where they heard speakers talking on different phases of the business world.

Students give service to school, Red Cross

"Service to Others," the motto of the Junior Red Cross Council, typified the spirit of its many projects and drives. Chosen by each guidance group, the members elected President Jim Richardson, who, aided by sponsor Miss Ripley, led the group through its many activities. Gift boxes for disaster areas were one of their first projects. For Thanksgiving, the council made tray favors for hospitalized children at Christmas they decorated coffee cans, filled them with cookies and distributed them to several nearby hospitals. To bring the spirit of Ireland to LT and to increase the council's treasury, members again sold green shamrocks on St. Patrick's Day. Functioning as a service organization, the council helped to aid the underprivileged and to interest others in public welfare.

with hospital, disaster projects, nursing care

By relinquishing their free time to assist others, the Aides helped keep LT running smoothly. The office aides carried messages; the nurses aides helped the sick; the door guards enforced school rules; the library aides contributed toward an orderly library; and the audio-visual aides assisted in the operation of the projection equipment. All of the aides looked forward to the big May party, when the school treated them to a dinner at the Spinning Wheel. Through the assistance of these volunteers, the school was able to operate efficiently and keep up its tradition of high standards.

only Varsity losses

Despite some definite disadvantages, the 1962 Varsity Football team made a strong showing for coach Tony Juska in his final season at LT. Though there were only four returning lettermen and the team was never at full strength due to many injuries, the Lion's easily captured third place in the WSC.

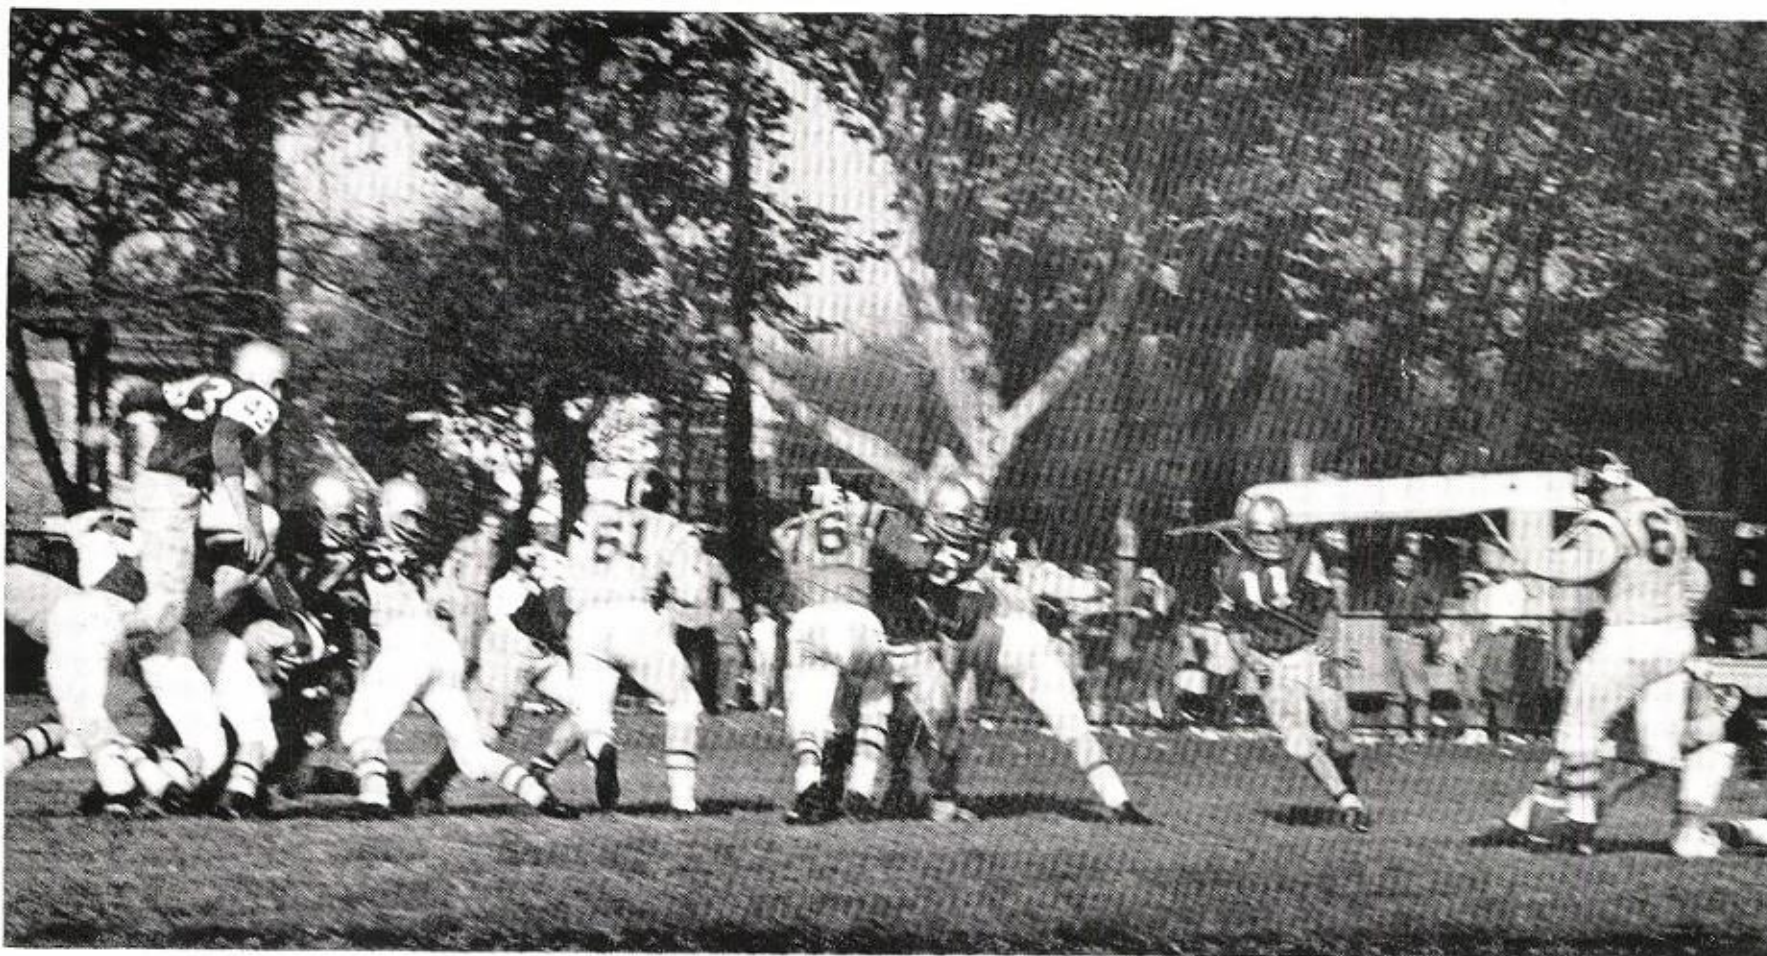

Starting with a rough non-conference win over Oak Park 13-12, LT went on to a heartbreaking loss to Downers due to a last minute touchdown. Coach Juska's boys then blanked York 20-0, beat Glenbard 21-7, and pounded Arlington 41-7. Then came two more shutouts. The Lions overcame the R-B Bulldogs 7-0 in a soggy, but happy, Homecoming game. The following week under the lights at Maine East, the LT gridgers soundly claimed their sixth victory by a score of 32-0. The varsity's only real whipping, 38-7, came at the hands of the Hinsdale Devils, ranked highly in the state.

From the LT squad Fred Barofsky, Bill Dix, and Joel Stellwagen were chosen as All-Conference players. Barofsky was also honored by being named to the All-Suburban and All-State rosters.

A strong backfield, excellent coaching, and great spirit added up to a perfect season for the 1962 Frosh-Soph Football team. After a rousing win over Oak Park 13-0, the Cubs began a conference winning streak by defeating Downers Grove 7-0. From then on the red-hot underclass gridders remained unscored-upon until the final game of the season with Hinsdale. Due to a last-minute fumble the Devils were able to gain a touchdown and the resulting extra point for a final score of 21-7. The undefeated team easily captured first place in the West Suburban Conference to climax an outstanding and satisfying eighteen-year frosh-soph coaching career for Mr. Russ Deason.

thinclads place third, second in conference

Paced by four returning lettermen, the Varsity Cross-Country team placed third in the formidable WSC. Coach Max Armer's thinclads then went on to take third in the district meet, while in a final show of individual effort, senior Mike Harville placed 9th in the state meet. The record of this year's sophomore team indicates that LT will be among the top competitors again next year.

Led by co-captains Greg Godar and Henry Thomas, the Frosh-Soph Cross-Country team placed second in the conference with a 6-3 overall record. Dominated by sophomore runners, the team, coached by Mr. Jon Knowles could boast of an undefeated dual meet record on their South Campus course.

cagers tie for third

Enthusiasm and disappointment reigned supreme as the Varsity Basketball team struggled through a long, but far from dull season. High hopes of winning the conference championship that they had won as sophomores were dispelled by a disasterously cold second half of the campaign. The quintet, coached by Mr. Art Sandusky, compiled an 8-6 conference record with an 11-9 overall mark.

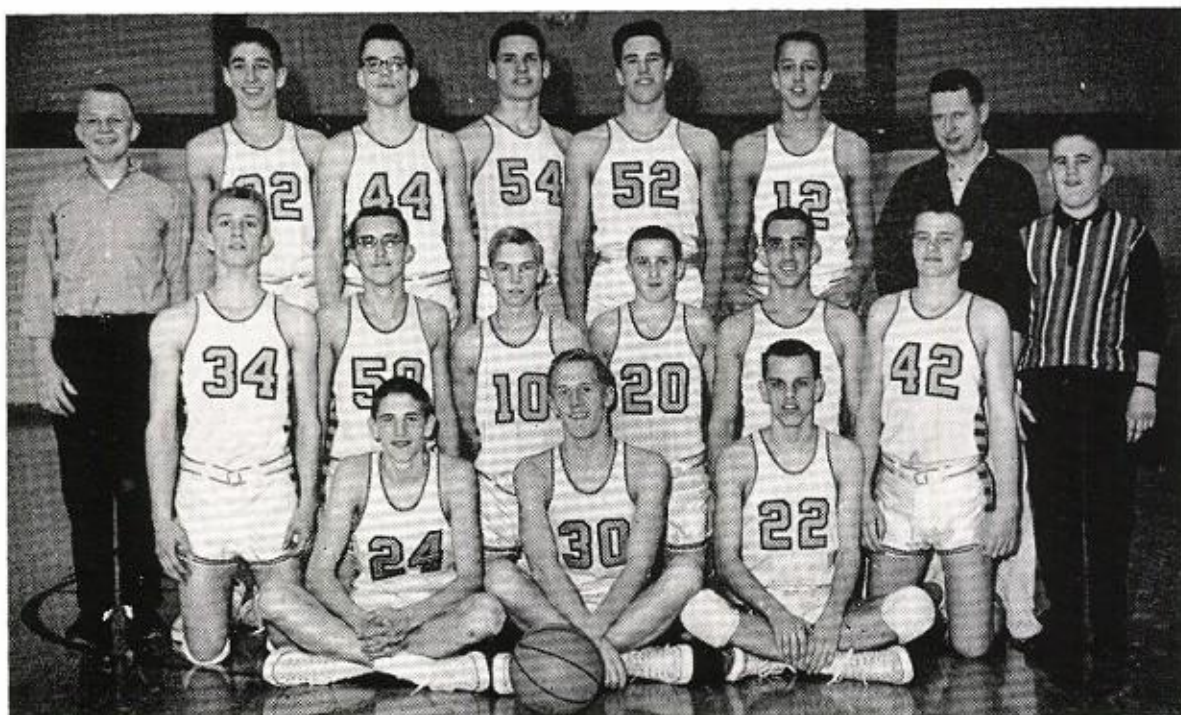

Off to a fine start with a first round of 5-2, the Lions then hit their cold spell. Constant shuffling of the squad's members failed to provide the answer to the problem and the Lions fell to a third-place tie with Maine East. Among the highlights of the season were the two victories, by a total of three points, scored over Glenbard in overtime and the 47-46 decision at Maine East. The season ended when the LT regional jinx returned and Hinsdale triumphed 69-64 at R-B.

High-scoring forwards Harry Bohn and Bob Taylor led the LT attack throughout the year, and both were named to the all-conference team. Though graduation will claim many of the top players, the J-V and outstanding sophomore team should provide the nucleus of a strong team next winter.

The success of the Frosh-Soph Basketball team was a source of the great school spirit and pride throughout the winter. Under their coach Mr. Roger Johnson, the squad finished with an impressive 17-2 overall record, which included a perfect 14-0 slate compiled in conference encounters. Only close defeats by New Trier and Thornton early in the season blemished their record.

During the conference campaign, the Cubs consistently showed their superiority early in the game, and thus were able to use the deepest Frosh-Soph bench strength seen in years. Starters Dennis DePaola, Chris Huson, Jim Vopat, John Wintermute Gary Jestadt, and Don Holton dominated play with Vopat seeing late-season varsity action.

home first trophy

A season highlighted by several important firsts was brought to a close as the 1962-63 Varsity Swimming team made its initial appearance in the state meet. Although the mermen compiled an unimpressive 6-9 record in dual meets, this does not take into account the many fine individual performances. Becoming LT's first entry in the state meet, the 200-yard freestyle relay team finished eleventh. The squad also took respectable fourths in both the Carl Sandburg Invitational and the Proviso West Relays, and climaxed Mr. Art Rawers' last year as coach when they brought home LT's first swimming trophy. Hopes are high for a successful season next year when a valuable group of underclassmen will assume the places of the graduating seniors.

LT's Frosh-Soph swimmers completed a season of competition with some of the best teams in the area with a record of 5 meets won and one 2-point loss to Niles East. Although some strong sophomores swam at varsity level, the team performed well, usually winning the freestyle events and the individual medleys, to guarantee their victories.

At the sound of the gun, varsity swimmers in the 200-yard free style event get off to a good start.

Finishing with an overall 16-1-1 record, the Varsity Wrestling team tied with Maine East for first place in the conference. Then they went on to capture first place in the district meet, second in the sectional, and fifth in the state. Highlighting the state meet for LT were the performances of Bob Dietz and Ovie Williams. Both boys won in the semi-finals, and Dietz brought home the title, becoming the second wrestler in LT's history to capture the state championship. For the second consecutive year, Williams suffered defeat in the finals and had to be content with the runner-up position.

Coach Bert Kraus commented that the 1962-1963 squad was the best wrestling team LT has ever seen. As proof of the fine individual contributions, LT's wrestlers were pinned only five times in some two hundred eighty matches. In addition, seven outstanding grapplers, Bob Dietz, Jim Massarello, Ovie Williams, Tom Newman, Rich Baum, Tom Spencer, and Brian Bachman, were chosen for all-conference honors.

Completing their season with a 5-2 conference record, the Frosh-Soph Wrestling Squad tied for third place in WSC. Finishing with an overall 11-4 record the team closed its season with a disappointing defeat at the hands of Reavis. Under the coaching of Mr. Art Suchomel, wrestlers Rob Baum, Ernie Stantesky, Henry Richmond, and Jim Pelish gave outstanding performances throughout the season.

hopes on outstanding individual performers

At an important home meet, Tim Rogers swings over the bar on his way to winning the pole vault.

Since the 1963 spring sports schedules had only begun as we reached our final deadline, we chose to review LT's 1962 spring sports results and give the reader a look at this year's prospects. By doing this, we hoped to present as complete a picture as possible.

Climaxing a satisfying year by preserving LT's traditional supremacy in track, the 1962 Varsity Track team retained the conference title. The cindermen also gave a hard-fought showing in the state meet at Champaign where they placed fifth. Outstanding for the year was the consistently successful performance of Tom Atkinson, who won the state broad jump title for three years in a row, as well as setting a conference record for that event. Many juniors, including Dave Basten, Norm Witek, Jerry Gilbert, Bill Holman, and Tim Rogers, contributed to the team's success and can be counted on to form a strong backbone for the '63 team.

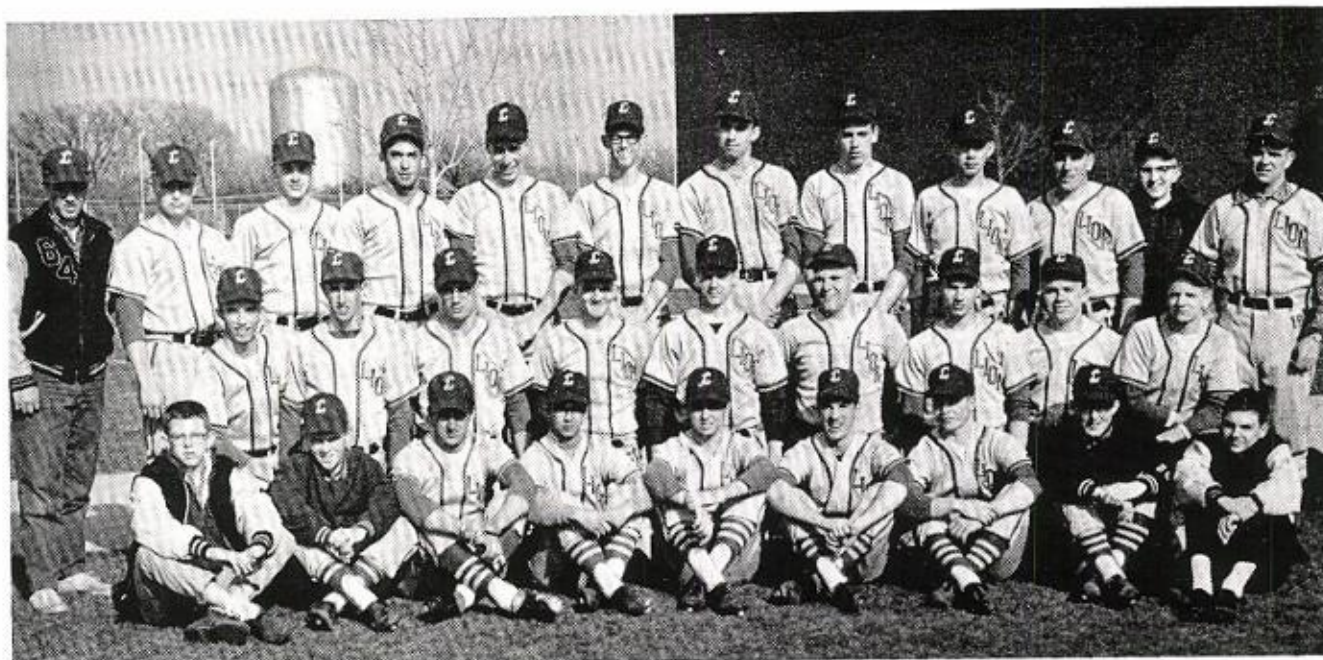

A disappointing sixth in the final conference meet at York was a letdown for the 1962 Frosh-Soph Track team. Successes for the season included a second place in the Sophomore Invitational at Proviso West, a third in the Morton West Freshman Invitational, and a satisfying victory over Maine West and Hinsdale in a triangular meet.

Coach Jon Knowles predicts a better finish for the 1963 season, when he will have returning a good nucleus for a top team.

Successful seasons

Adding valuable points for LT's capture of the President's Cup, the 1962 Varsity Baseball team copped second place in the conference. Coach Dick Leiber's ballplayers ended their WSC competition with a total of nine wins against five losses.

With a 2-1 victory over Morton West in the district tournament, the varsity began an eleven game winning streak in state competition. Led by all-state pitcher Fred Chana, the team scored easy 9-1 and 8-1 wins over Minooka and Taylorville to put them in the state finals. With a heartbreaking 3-2 loss to Decatur Eisenhower, the team ended the season as second in state.

Although hampered by the loss of starting pitchers this year's team finished fourth in the formidable WSC. Hopes of another trip to the state finals ended with a 4-1 defeat at the hands of Lockport.

anticipated by baseball, tennis, golf teams

With the loss of six matches, five by less than four strokes, the 1962 Varsity Golf Team's hopes for a successful season were crushed. Posting an honorable 3-4 record, the team finished fifth in the conference.

With three returning lettermen, other seniors, and upcoming junior players composing the squad, the Lions should be a conference contender in 1963.

Coach Jerome Kaufmann's Frosh-Soph Golf Team lost only three dual meets in 1962, while posting a fine 8-3 record. After winning three out of their four non-conference matches, they went on to establish a 5-2 dual meet record. With their fine second-place finish in the conference tourney, the little Lions took second place in the conference.

Last year's Varsity Tennis team finished second in the conference and sixth in the state, prompting Coach Art Rawers to say that it was the best squad LT has seen in six years. After beating Hinsdale for the first time in many years, the team went on to compile a 15-1 record. Mr. Rawers is looking forward to an excellent 1963 season with the team which won the Frosh-Soph championship two years ago.

Taking first place in the doubles division in the conference meet highlighted the fourth place finish of the 1962 Frosh-Soph Tennis team. After last year's good season, Mr. Nemecek is looking forward to even better performances this year.

Combined energy of the sixteen frosh-soph and the eight varsity Cheerleaders played an important role in keeping LT's outstanding school spirit at its peak throughout the sports season. During the Homecoming pep assembly and other pre-game pep sessions, the varsity squad led new and old cheers for the enthusiastic crowds. At the Illinois Cheerleading Clinic in November, the girls learned new cheers, which they introduced during the basketball season. With money raised from the sale of Homecoming buttons and football programs, the frosh-soph squad was able to purchase new uniforms. Throughout the year potluck suppers attended by cheerleaders from LT and from other conference schools furthered friendly relations between athletic rivals.

Enthusiastic routines

Bright, enthusiastic faces and spirited smiles were characteristic of LT's lively Pom-Pon Squad again this year. The twenty-four girls, sponsored by Miss Mellon and directed by Captain Chris Miller, did many routines, including dances to all of the conference school songs. Selling pom-poms at most of our home basketball and football games helped to finance new uniforms and to pay for the cleaning of the old ones. Besides performing at the games, the squad took part in special events such as the State Street Parade, and a celebration at the Hillside Shopping Center. Throughout the year, the girls were representative of the interest that all LT students have in the school's athletic events.

of pom-pon girls, twirlers brighten half-times

The contagious enthusiasm of LT's Twirlers has always inspired the students of La Grange whether at a game, at a concert, or in a parade. The six girls, directed by their sponsor, Mr. Hilgendorf, rehearsed every other day with the band in order to perfect their routines. Two of the techniques which helped them do well in the District and State Music Contests were their well-developed precision and rhythm. Throughout the year their demonstrations lent a note of gaiety to school events.

Extensive program of GAA reflects interests

To provide girls with ample opportunities to participate in extra-curricular sport, the Girls' Athletic Association offered numerous after-school activities. While the emphasis at South Campus was on team sports, the girls at North Campus shared in such individual activities as apparatus, modern dance, archery, and golf as these were more easily adapted to the limited facilities. Co-recreational volleyball, an innovation this year, was also a popular feature of North Campus after-school activities. To increase participation at North Campus, special board meetings and parties were held, and the sport heads offered individual awards to those who excelled in various activities.

Highlighting the year's non-athletic events were the Homecoming float, "LT's Got the Winning Hand," which won an honorable mention; Dad 'n' Daughter Night; the Christmas tea, a combined project with Girls' Club; and the Mother-Daughter Banquet. LT's GAA again exhibited its members' excellence by sponsoring a successful archery team, an undefeated varsity tennis squad, and a spot-shooting team, which won first place in the district and third place in the state contest. Through its extensive program, GAA made a fine contribution to the general welfare of LT girls.

The individual:
An intricate combination,
Both a student,
And a social being,
Realizing the need for friendship, companionship.
Those Hobo Days, those bonfires—
Activities of years ago,
By today's standards—unusual,
Yet for that time their purpose fulfilled,
Providing outlets for interest, enthusiasm.

Today
The hush before announcement of the queen,
Elaborate sets and powerful lights,
Well-known orchestra amid colorful decorations—
Plays, shows, dances, floorshows—
Part of the modern student's life,
A means for displaying talent,
Taking pleasure in another's work,
Enjoying friends.

Depicted here are our special events,
Providing each student opportunities
For understanding his school,
Understanding others,
Understanding himself.

The 75th anniversary of the school provided an appropriate theme for the 1962 Homecoming. The Student Council committee, headed by Steve Warsh, contacted alumni, planned events, and organized activities for "Festival of Diamonds." After a week of building floats, students let out their pent-up emotions at the first pep assembly in the Vaughan Gym. Following a skit by the alums and the introduction of the ball teams, Queen Chris Miller and her court Pam Hawkins, Evie Lindquist, Bonnie Linder, and Sue Nielsen were announced. Then excited snake-dancers grabbed their colored flash lights and ran through the pouring rain to the Corral. After a long night of float-building, spectators lined the streets waiting to see the Homecoming Parade. At 11:00, twenty-two floats, the band, and the Class of '38 emerged from the parking lot and were greeted by enthusiasm in spite of the drizzly weather. Then regardless of the mud, both the frosh-soph and varsity football teams defeated R-B by a score of 7-0. The Homecoming dance, "Jardin Reverie," topped off the weekend while the alumni reminisced at a dinner-dance at Lilac Lodge.

Hide-and-seek scenes,

Scheming plans of a matrimonial agent provided the basis for "The Matchmaker," this year's highly amusing Fall Play. This junior class sponsored production was under the direction of Mr. Frank Stacey.

After earning the last dollar of his first half million, Mr. Vandergelder, a rich merchant of Yonkers, decides to hire Mrs. Levi, the matchmaker, to find him a suitable wife. Instead of pursuing her assigned duty, Mrs. Levi busies herself with the love lives of Mr. Vandergelder's two chief clerks, his niece, and her fiancé.

This swift-moving play concludes in a succession of absurd hide-and-seek scenes. As the curtain comes down, Mrs. Levi has finally snagged Mr. Vandergelder for herself, and has also been successful in arranging the romances of two other couples.

Nic Knappen seems to be taking passive interest in the conversation of "Matchmaker" Rossann Baker and Nancy Hughes concerning his wedding plans.

Rossann Baker reacts with glee to Pam Nelson's embarrassment as Jim Latta discovers his clerks, Bill Margeson and Dave Cundif, in Pam's hat shop.

While Bonnie Lindner looks on approvingly, Judy Horstman reluctantly counts out the rent money to landlord Jim Latta for a "deluxe" Greenwich Village basement apartment.

While Bill Margeson struggles with the intricacies of ironing a jacket, Judy Horstman pounds out what she hopes will be a money-making story.

A dilapidated Greenwich Village apartment provided the setting for this year's Spring Play, "My Sister Eileen." This comedy, presented by the senior class and directed by Miss Sandra Mellen, amused audiences with a number of humorous absurdities.

As the play begins, Ruth and Eileen Sherwood arrive in New York hoping to fulfill their aspirations of becoming a writer and an actress. After signing the lease for their apartment, the girls are constantly bothered by the subway noise and the inconveniences of their new home. Eileen, the younger and more attractive of the two sisters, has an innocent, homey personality that continually invites passes from the men she meets. While Eileen is fighting off suitors, Ruth meets and falls in love with Mr. Baker, a New York magazine publisher, but her affections are not readily returned. After several humorous incidents caused by misunderstandings with the police and the Brazilian embassy, Eileen straightens out her romantic problems, and Ruth wins Mr. Baker's love. As the curtain comes down, the New York subway division is shown blasting through the basement floor in preparation for a new subway route.

Quiet town is upset by the final civilian kiss

Between acts of "Bye Bye Birdie," Rick Clayton and other cast members are able to snatch a brief minute of relaxation and conversation backstage.

After hearing that they will appear on the Ed Sullivan Show, the MacAfees, Jean Macdonald, Bonnie Lindner, Jack Davis, and Bill McLaughlin, register their reactions to the news.

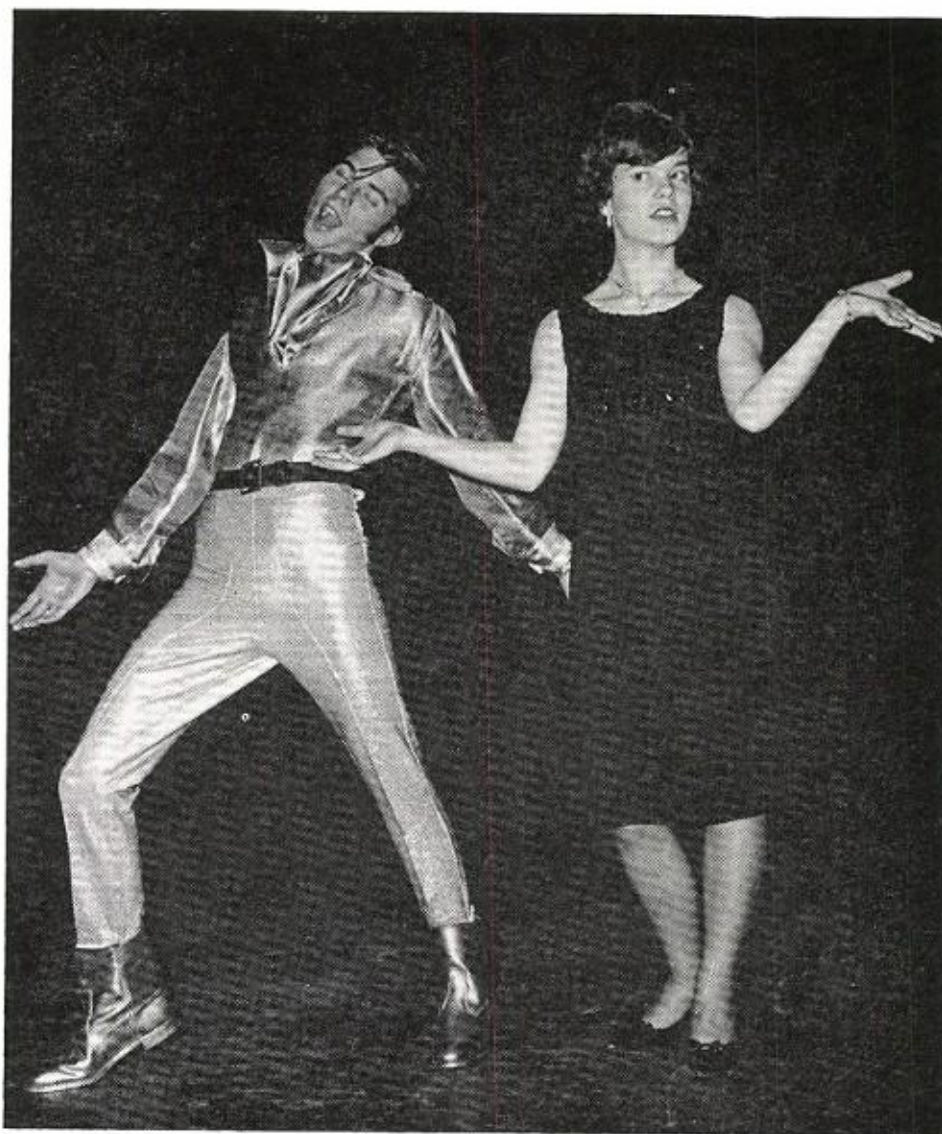

of Rock 'n' Roll singer in "Bye Bye Birdie"

After many weeks of work under the expert direction of Mr. Lawler, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Miller, Miss Rank, and Mrs. Herden, the LT Choir, dance groups, and orchestra presented this year's Operetta, Michael Stewart's "Bye Bye Birdie."

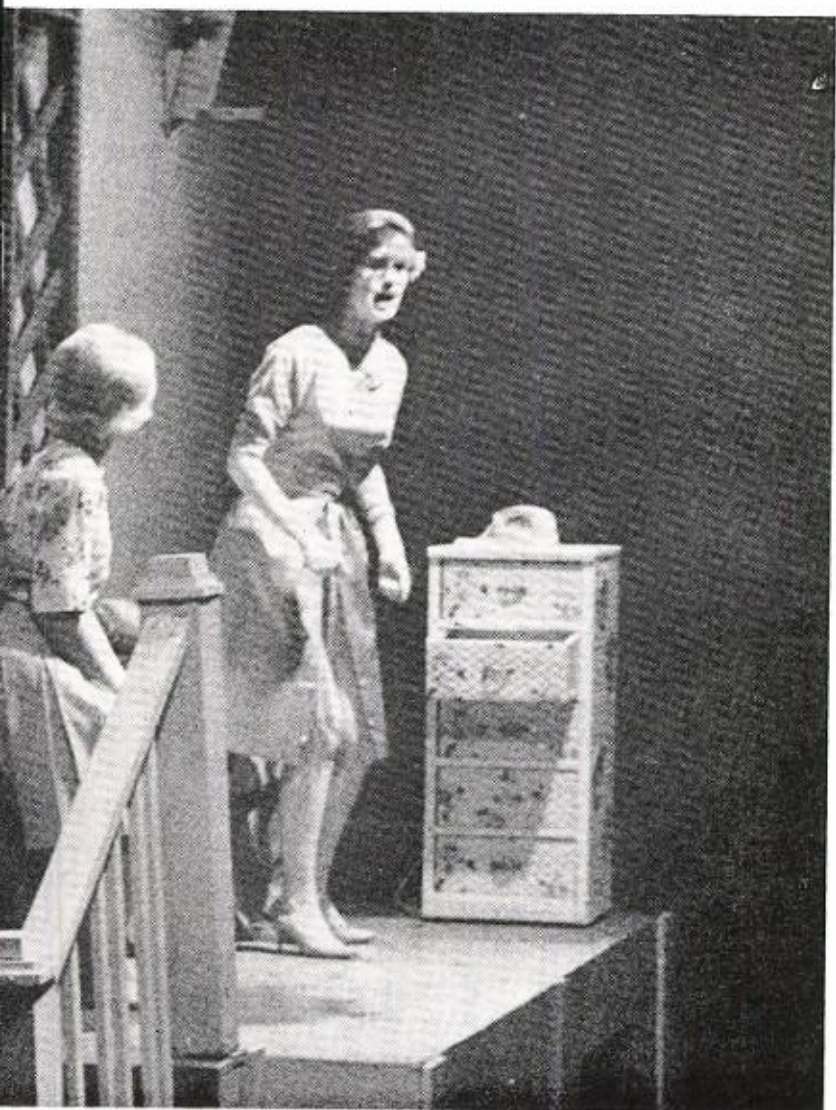

Upon learning that Albert Peterson's only client, popular singing star Conrad Birdie, is to be drafted, Rose Alvarez, Albert's secretary, encourages a publicity stunt so that Albert can make enough money to marry her. The two of them decide to choose a girl from Conrad's fan club to receive his final civilian kiss, which will publicize his song, "One Last Kiss."

As a result of this idea, the MacAfee household of Sweet Apple, Ohio, is thrown into a turmoil when Kim MacAfee is chosen to receive the coveted kiss. After being welcomed by Sweet Apple, Conrad receives the key to the city and, to everyone's delight, sings one of his Rock 'n' Roll songs. Later, on the Ed Sullivan Show where Kim is supposed to be kissed, Conrad is knocked out by Kim's jealous boyfriend, Hugo Peabody. The television show ends in a riot.

Then Conrad, disguised as a woman, leaves the MacAfees and the town in peace. Shortly afterward, Rose, feeling that she is only Albert's work horse, starts to leave town without him. As the play closes, Albert finally stands up to his domineering mother, who has never approved of his "Spanish Rose," and consequently he and Rose are free to be married.

Posing for advance publicity photos for "Bye, Bye, Birdie," leads Judy Horstman and Rick Clayton run through their separate songs.

South Campus Play,

Leonard Wibberley's satirical fantasy, "The Mouse That Roared," was presented as this year's South Campus Play.

The amusing comedy centered around a small, unimportant country which declared war on the United States so that it might lose and receive desperately needed money in the form of reparations. When their primitively armed raiding party invades the U. S., it immediately captures a brilliant American professor who has just perfected the ultimate weapon, a Q-bomb, thus forcing the U. S. to capitulation.

Attracting large crowds for all three of the performances, which were held in the South Campus Little Theater, the play proved to be a success.

Obirin Show offer outlets for student talent

Heralding the beginning of the Obirin Show, "Once Upon A Jungle," Sultan Rick Jones makes the first of many futile attempts to strike the gong.

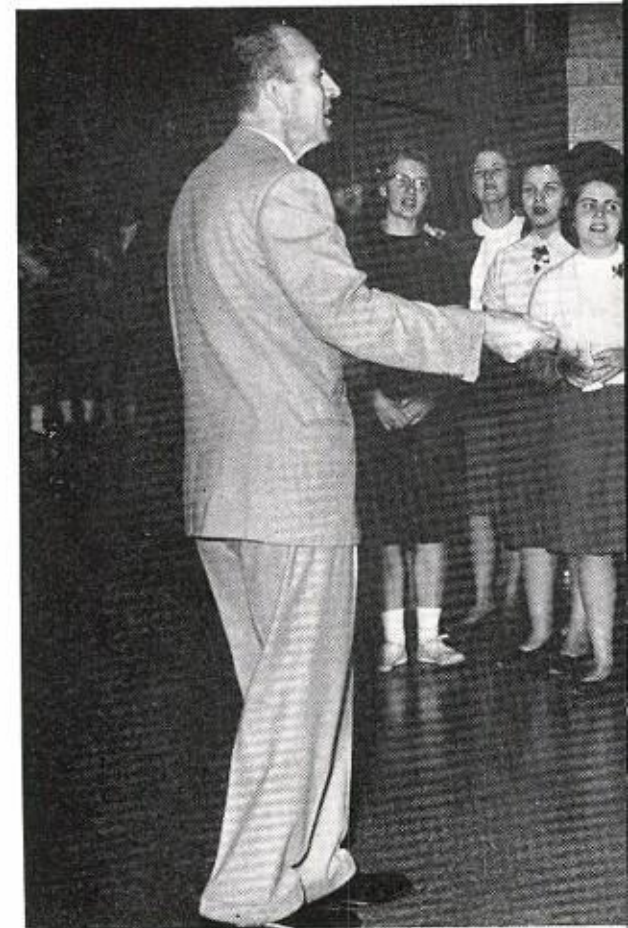

A birthday celebration honoring the Sultan of Sultania provided the background for this year's Obirin Talent Show, "Once Upon a Jungle." People of the land brought thirteen talent acts to the ruler as birthday gifts. Instrumentalists, singers, and dance groups from all classes performed in the production.

Sponsored by Student Council's Foreign Relations Committee, the annual show raises money to send to Obirin Gakuen, LT's sister school in Tokyo, Japan. This year's show opened with the performance of Miss Megumi Nakazato, a graduate of Obirin, who sang several Japanese songs.

Three hundred dollars in funds, attributed to a record-breaking sale of tickets, was sent to the Japanese school, which LT adopted in 1955.

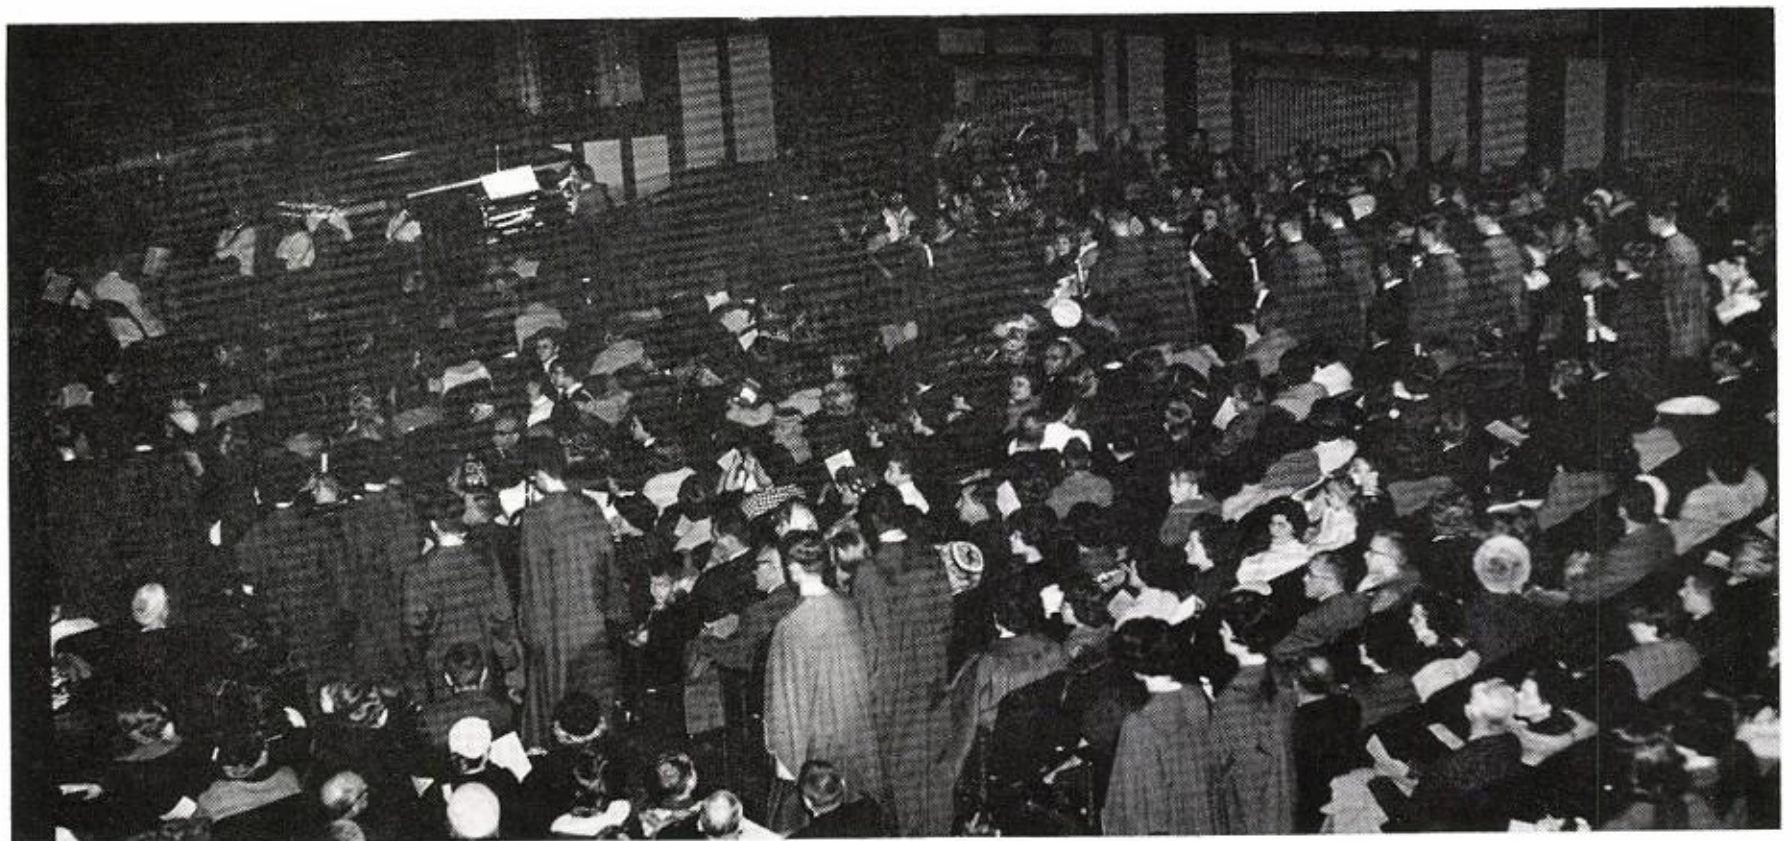

Enjoying his role as narrator of the Obirin Show, John Galaty prepares to introduce another talent act of "Once Upon a Jungle."

"Hi Nancy, Hi Helen" echoes through the Vaughan Gym as members of small choir sing the popular number, "The Telephone Hour," at the Pops Concert.

Chorus, choir entertain school, community

In the semi-darkness, candle-bearing choir members solemnly march down the auditorium aisles as the Christmas Vespers program begins.

With Mr. Lawler directing, voices of choir members echoed through North Campus halls before school as they entertained during the week preceding Christmas vacation.

at frequent programs

Performing at the Christmas and Spring Concerts highlighted a long list of musical events for the active choruses. Under the direction of Mr. Lawler, Mrs. Marderosian, and Miss Meyers, the various groups began their year by singing at class open houses. Later, several groups performed in the state music contest.

The Choir, composed of selected junior and senior voices, participated in Christmas Vespers and the All Arts Festival. In May came the highlight of the year when the singers united with other school groups at LT to make the West Suburban Music Festival an experience which will be long remembered. Much time and energy went into the production of this year's successful operetta, "Bye Bye Birdie." Small choir, a select group from choir, entertained at luncheons and dinners held by various local organizations. Closing this year's events was the choir's singing at Baccalaureate, which was followed shortly by a picnic enjoyed by all members.

Due to the expectedly large crowd this year, the Pops Concert site was moved to the Vaughn Gym where Mr. Fred Lawler, chorus and choir director, had adequate elbow room to lead his singing groups.

Long practice hours pay off in popular band,

Bringing the annual Pops Concert to a rousing conclusion, LT's drum major Harry Simmon leads band members in a rendition of the familiar "76 Trombones."

With the arrival of the football season, the North and South Campus Bands were seen and heard practicing their marching routines. The North Campus band, under the leadership of Mr. Hilgendorf, began another year of performances with a Veteran's Day concert consisting entirely of patriotic music. The members of both bands gained valuable experience from practice with band members from many different schools at a workshop at LT in January. Uniting with the other LT musical groups, the combined bands helped to make the Spring Festival a most successful event. As a fitting close to the year, members participated in the annual picnic in May, spending an enjoyable day at a local park.

Perfection is the goal of Mr. Hilgendorf and the North Campus band as they perform on the auditorium stage at the fall band concert.

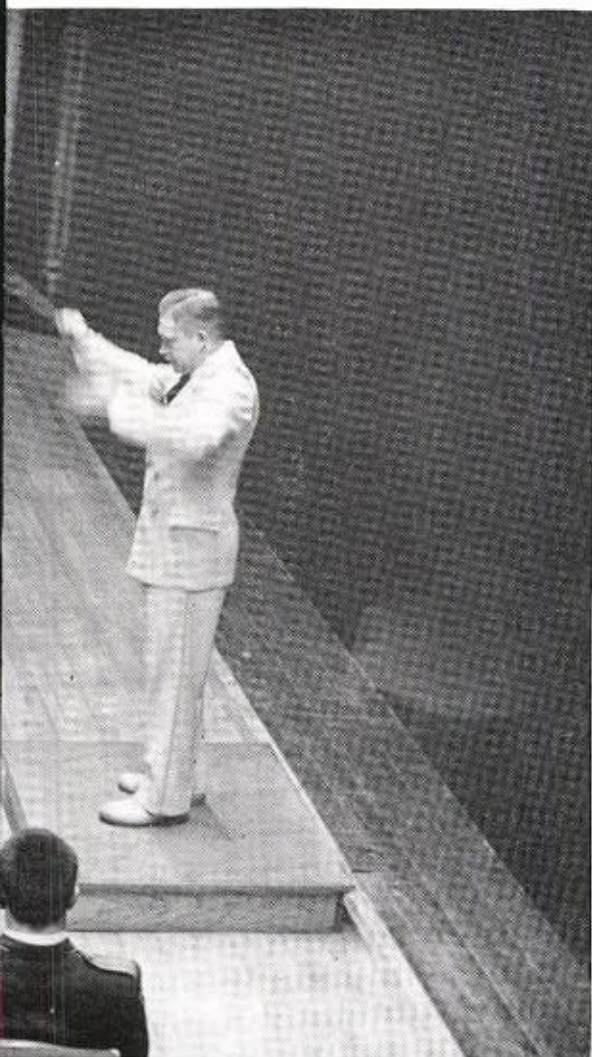

orchestra concerts

Skillful conducting of Mr. Miller and lessons in dynamic and rhythmic accuracy were big factors in the success of this year's Orchestra, rated as one of the three best in the state. Long Thursday night rehearsals regulated by a new code of conduct, suggested and approved by the members, culminated in the Pops Concert, the Christmas Festival, the Spring Concert, and the Spring Festival. Participation in the fall play, the Operetta, the orchestra workshop, and the West Suburban Music Festival helped the seventy-five members to increase their appreciation of good music and to discover a new medium of self expression. The young musicians not only practiced and performed, but they also thrilled at the sound of a piece of music taking shape, laughed at the presentation of the Order of the Horn, an "award" given by the director to the noisiest member of the group, and enjoyed themselves playing baseball at the annual picnic.

With the lights dimmed, the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Lawler, alternately plays and watches the performance of this year's operetta, "Bye, Bye Birdie."

Concentrating on their scores, orchestra members perform excerpts from well-known musicals at the Pops Concert.

for Boys', Girls' Clubs

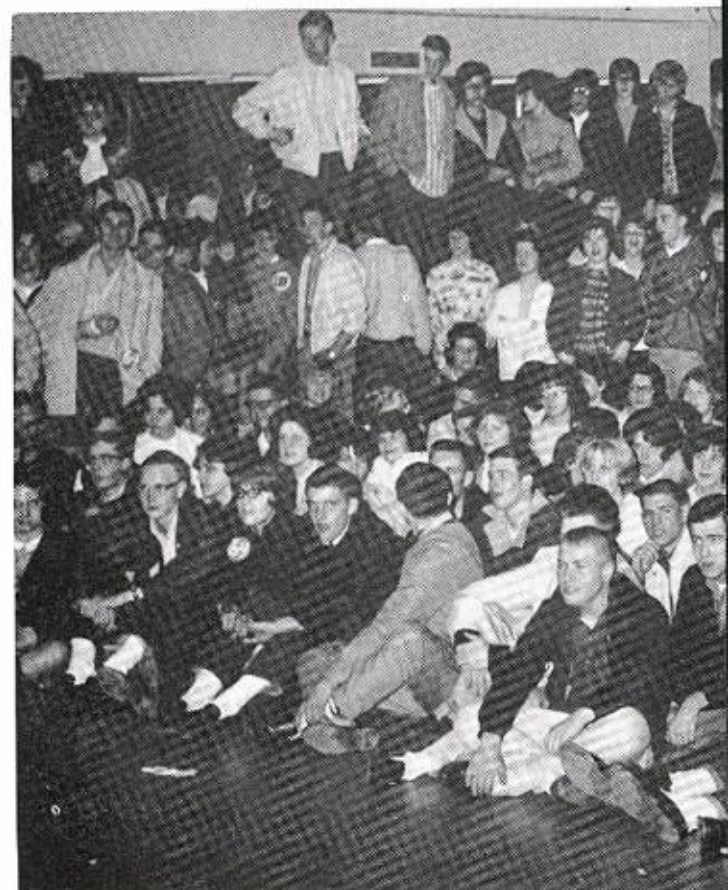

Providing at least one activity of interest for each LT girl was Girls' Club's main goal this year. Officers, board, and council, aided by sponsors Mrs. Bock and Miss Herzog, planned a full calendar for the year. Early in the fall, traditional rivalries were put aside as Boys' and Girls' Clubs co-operated in welcoming new students to the school at the New-comers' Party and in constructing a Homecoming float. Later events included Dad and Daughter Night, a Christmas tea in conjunction with GAA, the Girls' Club Dance at which the King of Hearts was crowned, and the sale of bows on the first day of spring, Bow Day. These special events and many other activities gave each member a feeling of belonging to a school which is truly interested in her.

With the aid of a strong representative board, Dan Hennessy and sponsor Mr. Gianuzzi led the Boys' Club through one of the best years the club has ever had. Their first duty of the year was to publish the Boys' Club Student Directory. Then once again they joined with Girls' Club to produce another prize-winning float. A newly-initiated project, the excursion to Wrigley Field for a Bear professional football game was just one of the club's many money-making projects. The club's annual semi-formal dance, "A Knight to Remember," was the expected highlight of the LT spring season that it has proved to be in the past.

During the annual August clean-up, new and old members of the Corral, the largest student-owned youth center in the world, worked together to prepare the six-year-old building for another year. Uniting LT's two campuses, the center sponsored such activities as the Corral's eighteenth birthday party, "Big Nites" with local combos or big-name bands, monthly dances featuring chorus lines, and the Summer and Winter Olympics. To plan this year's program, the officers worked closely with Mr. and Mrs. Kraus, the adult directors, the junior directors, and many student committees and volunteers. Part of the Corral's income was again used to redeem bonds sold in 1957 which financed the construction of the Corral building. As a salute to Mr. Olsen in his final year as superintendent-principal of LT, the theme of the Corral's first place Homecoming float was "A Tribute to Mr. Olsen." Climaxing months of work, Corral members presented the sixteenth annual Corral Show, "Deviled Yeggs," the organization's largest project of the year and its greatest source of income.

The "Octopi," one of the many chorus lines which contributed to the success of this year's student written and directed Corral Show, "Deviled Yeggs," has its first dress rehearsal.

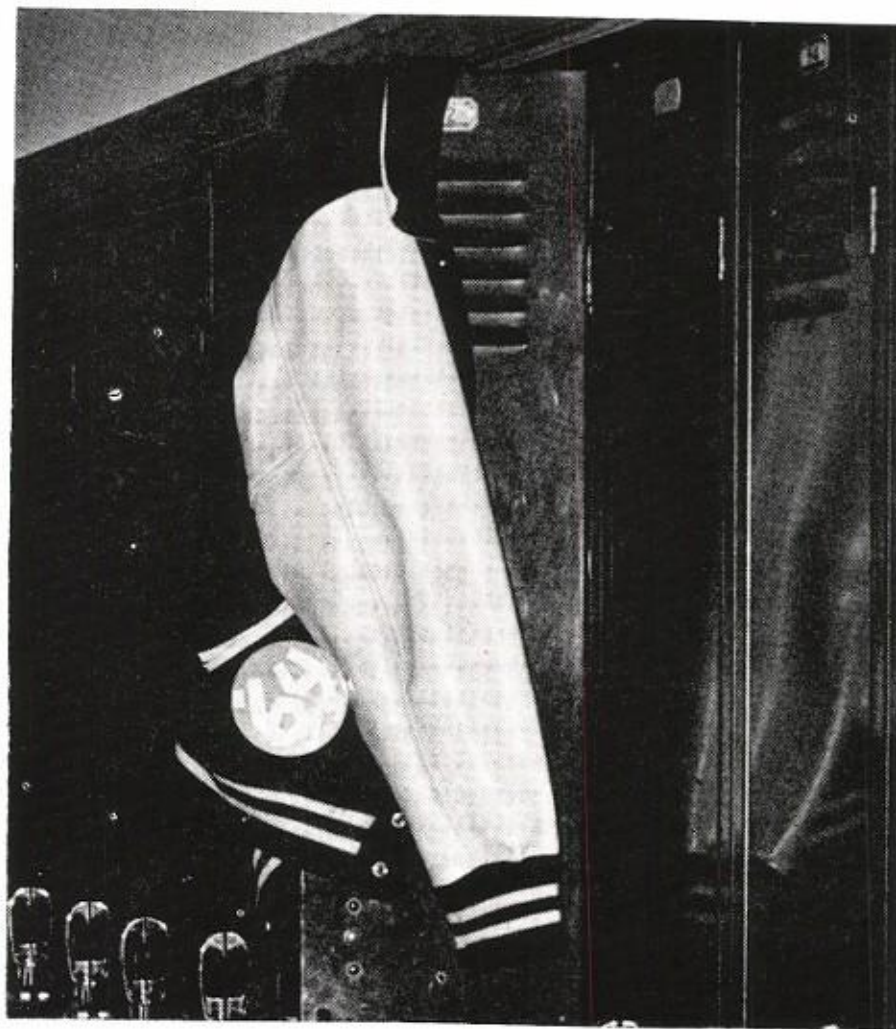

Classes,
Symbols of status,
Framed by loyalties,
Spanned by the spirit of co-operation,
Marking growth
As students progress
Grasping knowledge,
Accepting challenges,
Fulfilling responsibilities
To the school,
To the class,
To the individual.
The face of LT has changed,
But its students have changed little.
Today, as in the past,
Interest, competition, participation
Within the school,
Within the class
Develop good citizenship, personality, character.

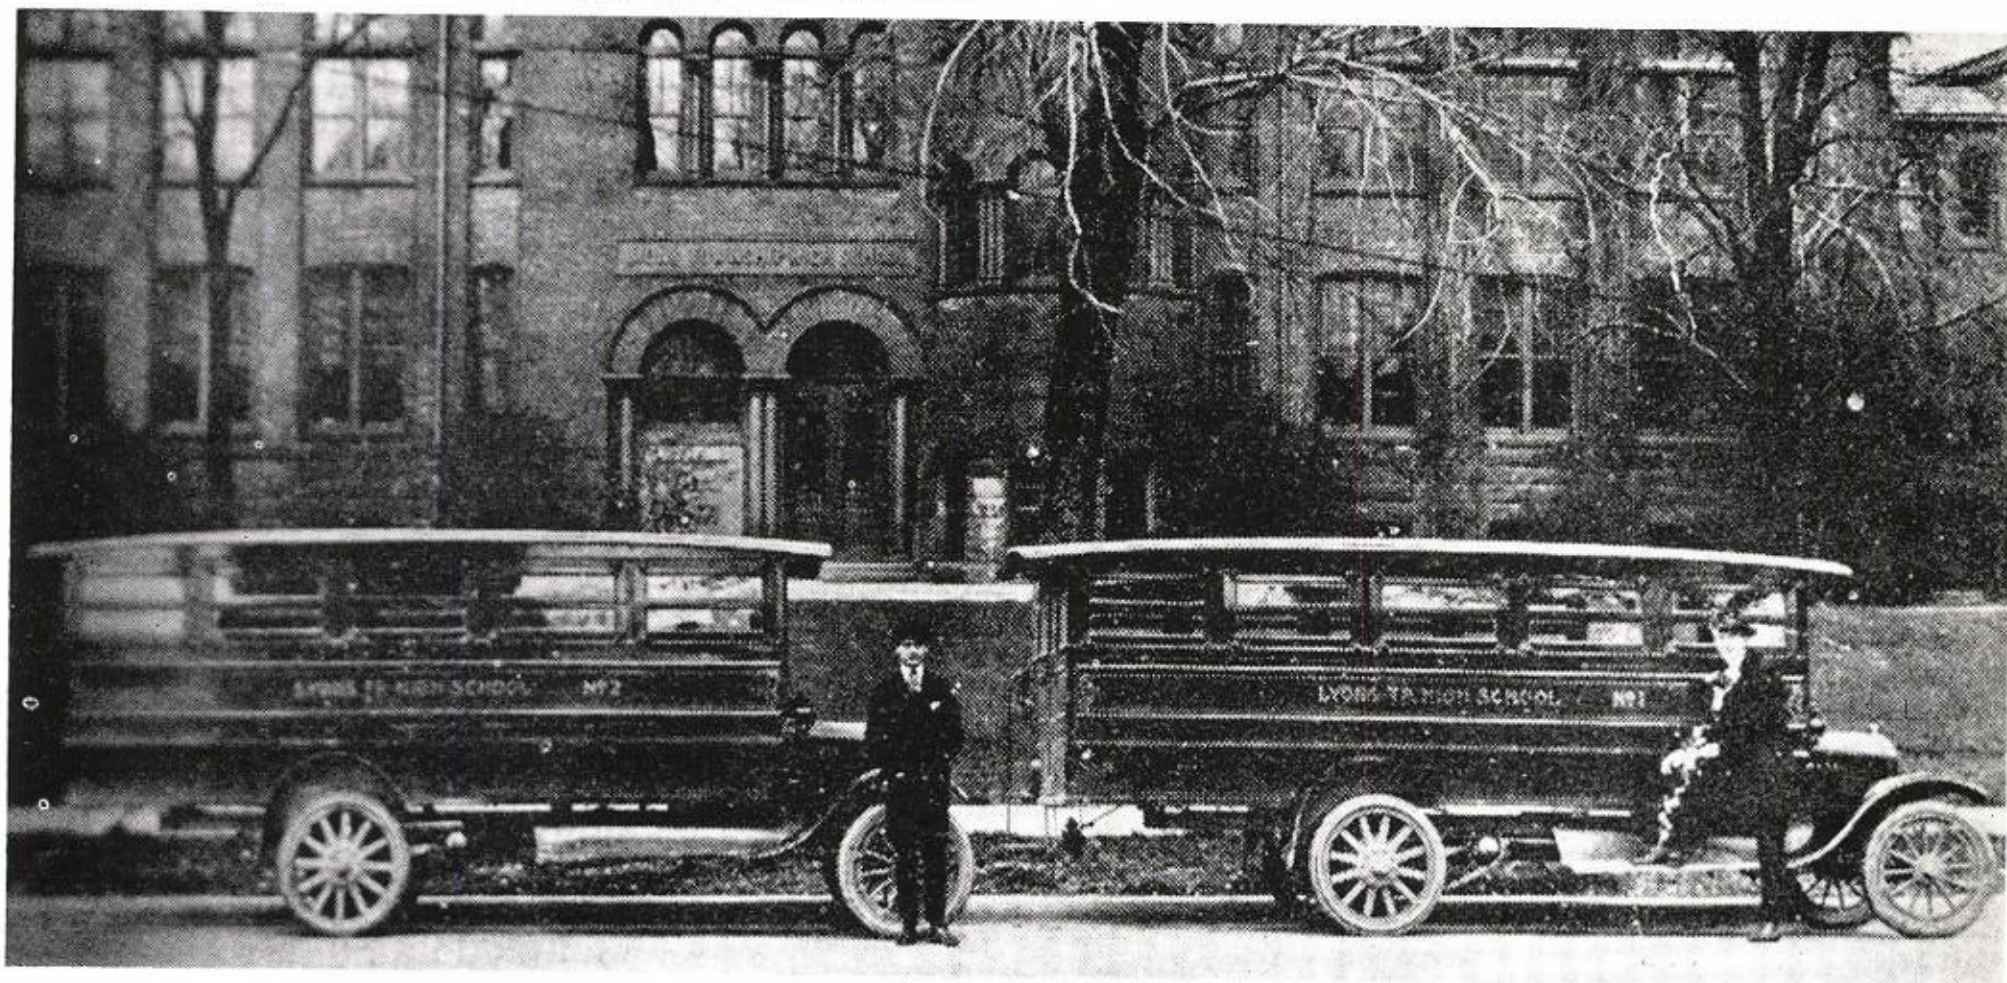

Here are our classes
Bringing into a unified whole
Individuals,
Their spirit, their fads, their traditions,
Leaving something with LT
For the future to note.

Enthusiastic freshman response characterized

In spite of their relative inexperience in the ways of the high school world, this year's Freshman Class quickly became familiarized with their new surroundings through the help of their advisers, Mrs. Huegli and Mr. Hammerlund. Later the freshmen, beginning to function as a single unit, elected Tom Reavis to head their class board. Because of their large enrollment and typical enthusiasm, the freshmen had large turnouts for the pep assemblies, the sports events, and the construction of their Homecoming float, "We Have an Engagement to Wring Their Necks." The class party, "Rainbow Rendezvous," provided the first chance for the frosh to mingle with one another at an all-freshman gathering. The opportunities for leadership and the responsibilities of organization to which the Class of '66 was exposed prepared them for the demands of heading next year's South Campus.

Sophomores gain experience in South Campus

Abundance of class and school spirit was the key to the success of the Sophomore Class. Remaining as the leader in enrollment, the class earned more than its share of school achievement under the leadership of President Bill Walsh and sponsors Miss Kausic and Mr. Willer.

Homecoming saw the class win first place in the Gold Division with their float, "Noil's Poils."

Later in the fall the Playboys' musical accompaniment added luster to the festive class party, "Emerald City." Sophomores got their first chance to produce a play when "The Mouse That Roared" was staged in the South Campus Little Theater. The experiences which the Class of '65 gained as leaders of South Campus prepared them for responsible life next year as juniors.

Academic, social activities at North Campus

Greater participation in class activities was the goal of the Junior Class. Its initial activity, the Fall Play, "The Matchmaker," earned more money than any other class has ever collected from a play production. Carrying this spirit through the rest of the year, juniors turned out in hundreds to work on their class float, "We'll Give 'Em the Works!" and later to contribute the largest amount to the Foreign Student Drive. Juniors celebrated December 5th, the 64th day of school, as "J-Day" by selling and displaying orange-and-white '64 buttons, which they continued to wear throughout the year. With another burst of energy in March, the juniors produced an outstanding class party, "Splotch," at which they painted their own mural. Later, they found that helping with the Senior Salute and picnic provided an enjoyable relief from end-of-the-year exams. The class president, Dick Wilson, looking back on a successful year, commented that pride in belonging to the class was the reason for the tremendous spirit displayed during the year. This enthusiasm should be a great asset for the members of the class of '64 when they assume the leadership of LT next year.

Homecoming 1959 . . .

The frightened new freshmen entering LT in the fall of 1959 became this year's confident seniors who looked back with pride on four years of class activities. Among the earliest of these events was our participation in the annual Homecoming celebration. Building of our float, "Times Have Changed, but Spirits Haven't," was quickly followed by our first class party, "Indian Summer." A year later, as we once again met as a class at "Sophomore Sorcery," we were a great deal more experienced in such complexities of high school life as managing LT notebooks and the art of balancing books. Among the events of our second year at LT were the class play, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," and the capturing of five conference crowns including a hard fought title in basketball. As leaders at South Campus, we set a high standard of spirit and leadership for classes to follow.

After becoming accustomed to the more traditional atmosphere of the older buildings of North Campus and to the noise and confusion of new construction, we, as juniors, took first place at the Corral Winter Olympics, setting the tone for the spirit which increased as the year progressed. Prior to winning the Olympics, the class sponsored the unforgettable fall play, "The Diary of Anne Frank," and constructed a Homecoming float depicting the Blue Devils bowing down to a golden Buddha. Looking forward to our own final year, we honored the seniors by serving at the traditional Senior Salute and Senior Class Picnic.

This year has been a busy and productive time for all members of the Class of '63 as we brought our high school years to a close and sought jobs or admission to college. Our last Homecoming gave us our first chance to proudly wear our new senior sweatshirts and also to exhibit the experience we had gained during the past years as we achieved second place in the gold division for our float, "The Lion Eats Tonight." Christmas card sales soon followed and their success insured funds for our important senior activities.

Senior week highlighted mid-year activities as we proudly displayed '63 class party buttons. Bleary-eyed, we attended the A.M. sock hop, a unique experience for senior classes, and wore our best for Senior Dress-Up Day. Finishing up the week was our class party, "Saints, Sinners, and Seniors," where we could wander from heaven to hell.

The end of the year brought Senior Salute, the class picnic, Baccalaureate, the Prom, and Graduation. As we participated in these, the last of our LT activities, our thoughts lingered on our experiences during the past four years. LT has come a long way since its beginning in 1888, and we can be justly proud of the contribution our class has made to its growth. But we can also be pleased with that which LT has given us.

Seniors selected for National Honor Society

Much-coveted membership in the National Honor Society is decided on the basis of a total score in leadership, scholarship, and citizenship. In the spring of his junior year each student in the upper third of his class submits a complete list of his high school activities to a committee for careful examination. These lists are supplemented by personality appraisals from teachers and leadership ratings from the faculty members with whom the student has worked. The students selected at this time number five per cent of the entire class. In the spring of their senior year another ten per cent are selected.

How about a game of tennis?
Guess who

Suzie,
I have had a wonderful journey and you have helped to make it so. Are we going to play tennis? or what this summer?
I will be seeing in the future and that is a promise. I will remember you then I play Bridge each time. I hope that you will have fun in The University next year and remember me, then you are hard studying

Be Good and Behave yourself. (if possible.)

Love Ya' Always loads of Love back &
Fun.
